Pursuant to Rule 56 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and Trademark Rule 2.127(e)(1), Opposer OAKWON DEMOGRAPHICS LLC d/b/a MISSION ESCAPE GAMES (“Oakwon” or “Opposer”) hereby moves for summary judgment on its claim of likelihood of confusion under Section 2(d) of the Trademark Act 15 U.S.C. §1052(d). In support, Opposer relies on the pleadings, the records of the USPTO, the Declaration of David Chen (hereinafter “Chen Decl.”), the Exhibits thereto, and the Declaration of Michael F. Sarney, Esq. (hereinafter “Sarney Decl.”), and the Exhibits thereto. Opposer’s motion is timely, since its testimony period has not yet commenced. 37 C.F.R. §2.127(e)(1), TBMP §528.02.

Summary judgment is appropriate in this case because there is no genuine issue of material fact with regard to the issues of priority and likelihood of confusion. Specifically, Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS marks are identical, or nearly identical to, and therefore confusingly similar with, Opposer's MISSION ESCAPE GAMES and MISSION marks; the relevant services are likewise identical; and the evidence demonstrates that Opposer's date of first use predates Applicant's filing dates by at least 17 months. Registration of Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS marks should therefore be refused pursuant to Section 2(d).

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Opposer's Prior Rights in its MISSION Marks

Since at least as early as April 2014, Opposer has continuously promoted, offered and provided entertainment services, in the nature of arranging and conducting room-escape games, a past-time which has become increasingly popular in the United States among customers of all demographics, under the marks MISSION ESCAPE GAMES and/or MISSION (collectively hereinafter, Opposer's "MISSION Marks") (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 2 - 6, 8 and 9; Exhibits 1 - 4).¹ By way of example, Opposer uses its MISSION mark in a stylized form on its website at <www.missionescapegames.com>, in promotional and advertising materials, and on signage at the Opposer's business locations, as shown below:

(Chen Decl. ¶9; Exhibit 1 and 3).

In addition to offering its services to the general public, Opposer has also promoted the services offered under its MISSION Marks as team-building exercises for other companies' employees, and has hosted groups from companies such as Barclays, Microsoft, Google, Yelp, ¹ More specifically, Chen Exhibit 1 demonstrates Opposer's use of its MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark in online advertising and sales as early June 28, 2014, and its use of its MISSION mark in stylized form in online advertising and sales as early December 16, 2014. Further, Exhibit 3 includes images of signage featuring the MISSION mark at Opposer's physical business locations as early as June 09, 2014.

Blackrock, Jetblue, Price Waterhouse Cooper, Bloomberg, Goldman Sachs, Pepsi, American Express, Chase Bank, Viacom, Equinox, Spotify, and Yahoo at its room-escape games held under its MISSION Marks (Chen Decl. ¶15). Due to the current trend in room-escape games, Opposer has also worked with large movie production companies, offering film-inspired events under its MISSION Marks to promote major cinema releases for films such as: Penguins of Madagascar (throughout the month December 2014), The Gallows (June 27-28, 2015), and Allegiant (Sunday, March 13, 2016) (Chen Decl. ¶16; Exhibit 7).

Opposer opened its first location under the MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark at 55-59 Chrystie St, Ground Floor #106, New York, NY 10002 (the “Manhattan Location”) (Chen Decl. ¶4). Before opening to the general public, Opposer first hosted market-test games under the MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark at the Manhattan location in or about March through early April 2014 (Chen Decl. ¶4). In or about November 2014, Opposer opened its second location under its MISSION Marks at 134-26 Northern Blvd, Flushing, NY, 11354 (the “Queens Location”) (Chen Decl. ¶5). Finally, Opposer registered the domain <missionescapegames.com> and has, via a website at this domain, continuously advertised its services under its MISSION Marks and has sold tickets to its room-escape games through this website since at least as early as May 2014 (Chen Decl. ¶ 8).

During the period May 2014 through the end of October 2015, Opposer sold over 37,000 tickets to escape-room games provided under its MISSION Marks at its Manhattan and Queens Locations, via online, in-person, and telephone sales, and/or through promotions with third-party vendors, totaling over ██████████ (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 6 and 7). Furthermore, during this same time period – May 22, 2014 through October 31, 2015 – Opposer sold tickets for escape-room games offered under its MISSION Marks, via its website, to customers from at least 47 States,² the District of Columbia, Canada, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 10 – 12; Exhibits 5).³ Notably, and despite only having physical locations within New York State during this time period, Opposer sold tickets via its website to at least 1,240 customers residing outside of the State of New York (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 10, 11, and 13; Exhibit 5). Finally, Opposer has continued to offer services under its MISSION Marks at both its Queens and Manhattan Locations to date, and from the period of November 01, 2015 through January 31, 2017, it sold over 50,000 tickets, grossing over [REDACTED] (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 12 and 14, Exhibit 6).⁴

In addition to sales, Opposer has invested significantly in advertising and promoting the services offered under its MISSION Marks. Opposer has advertised its room-escape game services under its MISSION Marks through its social media accounts with Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter since May 2014 (Chen Decl. ¶19). In relation to Opposer's use of its MISSION Marks on Facebook, Opposer has purchased and run advertisement campaigns promoting the services offered under its MISSION Marks through Facebook from May 2015 to date, at the cost of over [REDACTED] which have reached over approximately 5.1 million users; moreover, a Opposer's MISSION ESCAPE GAMES Facebook profile has received over 21,000 page likes, over 20,000 followers, and over 9,000 “check ins” since it was established (Chen Decl. ¶20; Exhibit 9).

² Specifically, Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

To promote sales under its MISSION Marks, Opposer has purchased advertising campaigns on Yelp.com that have run from June 2015 to date (Chen Decl. ¶21). Opposer had originally agreed to spend approximately [REDACTED] per year on Yelp.com advertising but, in 2016, it increased the amount spent to an annual total of approximately [REDACTED] (Chen Decl. ¶21; Exhibit 10). Opposer has also used its MISSION Marks on promotional sales for its escape-game services through “deal sites” such as Groupon.com, from June 2014 to date, and LivingSocial.com, from June 2014 through August 2016 (Chen Decl. ¶18; Exhibit 8), and advertises the services offered under its MISSION Marks through ads and promotions with Open Loop New York, a charter bus company which offers tours of New York City (Chen Decl. ¶22).

Opposer’s services offered under its MISSION Marks have received significant press and notoriety through reviews, interviews, write-ups, and awards. Opposer’s services offered under its MISSION Marks have been the subject of features on Newsweek.com , ABC News Radio, and RoomEscapeArtist.com, a website containing a database with articles reviewing escape-room games across the United States and Canada (Chen Decl. ¶24, Exhibit 12). Opposer’s Manhattan Location was, as of March 21, 2017, Number One on TripAdvisor ranked.com’s list of Fun Activities & Games in New York City, and has been awarded TripAdvisor.com’s Certificate of Excellence (Chen Decl. ¶23, Exhibit 11). Further, Opposer’s Manhattan and Queens Location have both received RoomEscapeArtist.com’s 2015 Golden Lock-In Award as featuring one of the top ten room-escape games out of 65 games played by RoomEscapeArtist.com in 2015 (Chen Decl. ¶25, Exhibit 13).

Due to the success of the Queens and Manhattan Locations, Opposer opened its third location under its MISSION Marks at 400 W. Disney Way, Unit 313, Anaheim, CA 92802 (the “Anaheim Location”) in or about October 2016, and since its opening Opposer has sold over 1,500 tickets for games conducted under its MISSION Marks at the Anaheim Location, grossing over ██████████ (Chen Decl. ¶17). Moreover, Oakwon is currently in the process of launching two new locations under its MISSION Marks, one in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and the other in Hartford Connecticut, and has plans to open additional MISSION-branded escape-game locations elsewhere in the United States (Chen Decl. ¶26).

B. The Parties’ Respective Applications

On or about November 10, 2015, Applicant Mission Escape Rooms LLC (“Applicant”) filed an application under Section 1(b) of the Trademark Act to register the word-mark MISSION ESCAPE, based on an intent to use the mark in connection with “conducting live entertainment in the nature of games featuring room escape, puzzles, and team strategy” in International Class 41, and the application was assigned Serial No. 86/815,642 (“the ‘642 Application”). On or about November 11, 2015, Applicant filed an application under Section 1(b) to register the word-mark MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS, based on an intent to use the mark in connection with “conducting live entertainment in the nature of games featuring room escape, puzzles, and team strategy” in International Class 41, and the application was assigned Serial No. 86/815,955 (“the ‘955 Application”).

On February 26, 2016, Opposer filed U.S. Trademark Application Serial No. 86/921,429, for the mark MISSION ESCAPE GAMES, which, as amended, disclaims the wording “ESCAPE GAMES” apart from the mark as a whole, and which covers, “arranging and conducting entertainment by means of live interactive puzzle adventure games and challenges, namely, featuring room escape, problem solving, teamwork and strategy and social entertainment events” in International Class 41, pursuant to Section 1(a) of the Trademark Act and claiming use since at least as early as April 2014. On March 16, 2016, Opposer filed U.S. Trademark Application Serial No. 86/941,933, for the mark MISSION, which, as amended, covers, “arranging and conducting entertainment by means of live interactive puzzle adventure games and challenges, namely, featuring room escape, problem solving, teamwork and strategy and social entertainment events” in International Class 41, pursuant to Section 1(a) and claiming use since at least as early as December 16, 2014. Opposer’s applications have been suspended based on a potential likelihood of confusion with Applicant’s prior filed ‘642 and ‘955 Applications.

Applicant’s ‘642 and ‘955 Applications (collectively “Applicant’s Applications” or the “Subject Applications”) were published in the Official Gazette on May 10, 2016, disclaiming the wording “ESCAPE” and “ESCAPE ROOMS,” respectively, apart from each mark as a whole. Opposer timely filed Notices of Opposition against the Subject Applications on May 12, 2016. Applicant filed its Answers on June 17, 2016. Applicant has not filed an Amendment to Allege Use under Section 1(c) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §1051(C) in relation to either of the Subject Applications.

C. Applicant's Use of its Marks

As noted above, Applicant filed the Subject Applications on November 10, 2015 and November 11, 2015, respectively, based on an intent-to-use in connection with “conducting live entertainment in the nature of games featuring room escape, puzzles and team strategy.” The services covered by the Subject Applications are not limited to any target consumer group or specific trade channels and, to date, Applicant has not filed an Amendment to Allege Use in either instance.

In response to Opposer's Interrogatories, Applicant admitted that it first, "began publicizing the Subject Trademark as early as December 7, 2015 on Facebook, through a website (December 13, 2015), and truck wrap (December 2015)." (Opposer's Answer to Interrogatory No. 1, Sarney Decl. Exhibit A). Further, as of January 09, 2017, Applicant "operates one hard location in Annapolis Maryland [under the MISSION ESCAPE and/or MISSION ESCAPE ROOM marks] and is in the process of opening another location in Gambrills, Maryland," and that, among other methods, it advertises and/or offers its services under these marks on Groupon, Yelp, Trip Advisor, and Facebook (Applicant's Answers to Interrogatory Nos. 8 and 7, Sarney Decl., Exhibit A). Without addressing whether or not such information constitutes evidence of actual trademark use, Applicant's date of first use claimed in its interrogatory answer is later than the filing date of the Subject Applications. Accordingly, Applicant cannot claim rights in the subject marks prior to November 10, 2015 and November 11, 2016, respectively.

III. ARGUMENT

A. Summary Judgment Standard

Summary judgment is appropriate when the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is therefore entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a); Flatley v. Trump, 11 U.S.P.Q.2d 1284, 1287 (T.T.A.B. 1989). "The summary judgment procedure is regarded as 'a salutary method of disposition,' and the Board does not hesitate to dispose of cases on summary judgment when appropriate. TBMP §528.01. The purpose is to avoid an unnecessary trial where there is no genuine issue of material fact and more evidence than is already available in connection with the motion for summary judgment could not reasonably be expected to change the result of the case. University Book Store v. University of Wisconsin Board of Regents, 33 U.S.P.Q.2d 1385, 1389 (T.T.A.B. 1994).

Once the moving party has established the absence of any genuine issue of material fact, the burden is on the non-moving party to present sufficient evidence to support the claim that a genuine factual issue exists. Flatley, 11 U.S.P.Q.2d at 1287. A material fact is one that may affect the decision in the case. University Book Store, 33 U.S.P.Q.2d at 1389. A dispute over a fact which would not alter the Board's decision on the legal issue will not prevent entry of summary judgment. See, e.g., Kellogg Co. v. Pack'Em Enterprises Inc., 951 F.2d 330, 21 U.S.P.Q.2d 1142 (Fed. Cir. 1991). Differences in accounts of the facts do not preclude summary judgment unless the differences are material to the outcome of the proceeding. Pagan-Lewis Motors, Inc. v. Superior Pontiac, Inc., 216 U.S.P.Q. 897, 900 (T.T.A.B. 1982); University Book Store, 33 U.S.P.Q.2d at 1390.

Here, the Board can and should find that there is no genuine issue of material fact that there is a likelihood of confusion between the parties' marks, and that Opposer has priority in its MISSION Marks in connection with the relevant services.

B. Likelihood of Confusion Standard

In the seminal case involving likelihood of confusion, In re E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., the U.S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals discussed the factors relevant to a determination of likelihood of confusion. 476 F.2d 1357, 177 USPQ 563 (C.C.P.A. 1973). Taking into account the relevant du Pont factors, a likelihood of confusion determination in this case will involve a two-part analysis. First, the marks will be compared for similarities in their appearance, sound, connotation, and commercial impression. TMEP §§1207.01, 1207.01(b). Next, the services will be compared to determine whether they are similar or commercially related or travel in the same trade channels. See Herbko Int'l, Inc. v Kappa Books, Inc., 308 F.3d 1156, 1164-65, 64 USPQ2d 1375, 1380 (Fed. Cir. 2002); Han Beauty, Inc. v. Alberto-Culver

Co., 236 F.3d 1333, 1336, 57 USPQ2d 1557, 1159 (Fed. Cir. 2001); TMEP §§1207.01, 1207.01(a)(vi).

There can be no genuine issue of material fact that the marks depicted in Applicant's '642 and '955 Applications, respectively MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS, so closely resemble Opposer's previously used MISSION and MISSION ESCAPE GAMES marks, and the services covered by the applications are identical to, or are so closely related to the services provided by Opposer under its MISSION Marks, as to be likely to cause confusion on the part of consumers, with consequent injury to Opposer and the public, in violation of Section 2(d) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §1052(d).

C. Likelihood of Confusion: Comparison of Marks

Opposer's MISSION and MISSION ESCAPE GAMES marks and Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS marks are identical, nearly identical and/or highly similar to each other in appearance, sound, connotation, and commercial impression. First, confusion is likely as Opposer's MISSION mark is incorporated in its entirety in Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS mark, and Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE mark is incorporated in its entirety in Opposer's MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark. See Bd. of Regents v. S. Ill. Miners, LLC, 110 USPQ2d 1182, 1189 (TTAB 2014); ("Likelihood of confusion is often found where the entirety of one mark is incorporated within another." (citing Johnson Publishing Co. v. International Development Ltd., 221 USPQ 155, 156 (TTAB 1982) (EBONY for cosmetics and EBONY DRUM for hairdressing and conditioner); In re Denisi, 225 USPQ 624, 626 (TTAB 1985) (PERRY'S PIZZA for restaurant services specializing in pizza and PERRY'S for restaurant and bar services); In re South Bend Toy Manufacturing Company, Inc., 218 USPQ 479, 480 (TTAB 1983) (LIL' LADY BUGGY for toy doll carriages and LITTLE LADY for doll clothing)); see also Panda Sec., S.L. v. Panda Core Tech., Inc., Opposition No. 91191921, 2011 TTAB LEXIS 172, *14 (TTAB May 18, 2011) (Non-precedential).

Second, confusion is likely as the prominent, distinctive term in each of Opposer's and Applicant's marks is the term MISSION. See Panda Sec., S.L., 2011 TTAB LEXIS at *14 ("Nevertheless, it is well settled that one feature of a mark may be more significant than another, and it is not improper to give more weight to this dominant feature in determining the commercial impression created by the mark." (citing In re National Data Corp., 753 F.2d 1056, 224 USPQ 749, 751 (Fed. Cir. 1985))). In each of Applicant's and Opposer's applications, the following descriptive terms were disclaimed apart from the respective mark as a whole, due to the descriptive nature of those terms in relation to the room-escape game services covered:

| Application | Disclaimed Terms |
|--|-------------------------|
| Applicant's Serial No. 86/815,642 for MISSION ESCAPE | "ESCAPE" |
| Applicant's Serial No. 86/815,955 for MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS | "ESCAPE ROOMS" |
| Opposer's Serial No. 86/921,429 for MISSION ESCAPE GAMES | "ESCAPE GAMES" |

In each of the above applications the only term which did not require a disclaimer was the term MISSION, and, as such, MISSION is likely to be perceived as the prominent portion of each mark. See Panda Sec., S.L., 2011 TTAB LEXIS at *14 ("Descriptive matter in a mark may have less significance in likelihood of confusion determinations" (citing Cunningham v. Laser Golf Corp., 222 F.3d 943, 945, 55 USPQ2d 1842, 1846 (Fed. Cir. 2000))). While Opposer's

MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark and Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS mark differ in their third term, both GAMES and ROOMS are likely to be interpreted to as referring directly to the "escape-room games" offered under the marks. See Panda Sec., S.L., 2011 TTAB LEXIS at *14 ("The test is not whether the marks can be distinguished when subjected to a side-by-side comparison, but rather whether the marks are sufficiently similar in terms of their overall commercial impression that confusion as to the source of the goods offered under the respective marks is likely to result. Furthermore, the focus is on the recollection of the average purchaser, who normally retains a general rather than a specific impression of trademarks." (citing Sealed Air Corp. v. Scott Paper Co., 190 USPQ 106, 108 (TTAB 1975))).

Applicant's and Opposer's marks contain the same predominant distinctive element "MISSION", and Applicant's MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS marks, subject of '642 and '955 Applications, share the identical second term, ESCAPE, with Opposer's MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark. As both the terms "MISSION" and "ESCAPE" are common English words and are used in a similar context (i.e., in relation to offering room-escape games), consumers are likely to pronounce the marks identically and perceive Applicant's and Opposer's marks as having identical or similar connotation and impression.

Accordingly, there is no genuine issue of material fact with regard to the nearly identical, or highly similar, appearance, sound, connotation, and commercial impression of the marks in this case.

D. Likelihood of Confusion: Comparison of Services

Applicant's 642 and '955 Applications, cover 'conducting live entertainment in the nature of games featuring room escape, puzzles and team strategy' in Cl. 41(emphasis added). As discussed above, Opposer has used its MISSION Marks in connection these and other related escape-room entertainment services. Moreover, Opposer's applications for MISSION and MISSION ESCAPE GAMES essentially cover identical services, namely "arranging and conducting entertainment by means of live interactive puzzle adventure games and challenges, namely, featuring room escape, problem solving, teamwork and strategy and social entertainment events" in Cl. 41 (emphasis added).

Opposer's and Applicant's entertainment services are centered upon escape-room games and, as such, are identical, highly similar, and/or related. Applicant's entertainment services are not limited to any specific target consumer group or trade-channels, making them likely to be marketed to the same members of the general public who are interested in attending Opposer's room-escape games, and through similar trade-channels, such as Yelp, TripAdvisor, Facebook, and Groupon. (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 3, 6, 18, 19, 20 and 21; Applicant's Answer to Interrogatory No. 7, Sarney Decl. Exhibit A). Therefore, there is no genuine issue of material fact with regard to the relatedness of the services provided under the parties' respective marks.

E. Priority of Use

Through widespread, ongoing, and continuous use, Opposer has acquired exclusive rights in its MISSION Marks that predate any rights upon which Applicant may rely. As set forth above, beginning at least as early as April 2014 and continuing to present day, Opposer has used its MISSION Marks in connection with its escape-room entertainment services (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 2, 3, 4, 6, and 8; Exhibits 1 and 2).

In contrast, Applicant's '642 and '955 Applications were based upon its intention to use the covered marks in commerce and were filed on November 10, 2015 and November 11, 2016, respectively. To date, Applicant has not filed an Amendment to Allege Use under Section 1(c) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §1051(C) in relation to either application. Moreover, Applicant has admitted that the earliest date upon which it might be able to claim use of its marks is December 7, 2015 (Applicant's Answer to Interrogatory No. 1, Sarney Decl., Exhibit A). Therefore, the earliest date upon which Applicant may rely to establish rights in the MISSION ESCAPE and MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS marks, is the filing date of the '642 and '955 Applications, respectively filed on November 10, 2015 and November 11, 2016.

Prior to the filing dates of Applicant's '642 and '955 Applications, during the period of May 22, 2014 through October 31, 2015, Opposer, via its website, sold tickets for escape-room games offered under its MISSION Marks to customers from at least 47 states, including Maryland, where the Applicant's business is located, as well as to customers from Canada, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands (Chen Decl. ¶10, Exhibit 5; Applicant's Answer to Interrogatory No. 8, Sarney Decl., Exhibit A). Notably and despite only having locations within New York State, during this time period Opposer, via its website, sold tickets for escape-room games offered under its MISSION Marks to customers to at least 1,240 customers residing outside of the state of New York (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 10 and 11; Exhibit 5). Opposer has continued to offer services under its MISSION Marks at both its Queens and Manhattan Locations to date, and from the period of November 01, 2015 through January 31, 2017 has sold over 50,000 tickets, grossing over [REDACTED] (Chen Decl. ¶¶ 12 and 14, Exhibit 6).

This firmly establishes that Opposer's rights in its MISSION Marks predate any rights of the Applicant by at least a year and five months. Accordingly, there is no genuine dispute with regard to Opposer's priority in this case.

IV. Conclusion

Opposer has established that there is no genuine dispute of material fact with regard to the likelihood of confusion between the parties' marks and Opposer's priority in its MISSION

Marks. Therefore, Opposer respectfully requests that the Board grant summary judgment in favor of Opposer and deny registration of the '642 and '955 Applications.

1. I am a managing member and co-founder of Opposer Oakwon Demographics LLC d/b/a Mission Escape Games (“Oakwon”), I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth herein, and I make this declaration in support of Opposer’s Motion for Summary Judgment.
2. Since at least as early as April 2014, Oakwon has continuously promoted, offered and provided entertainment services under the marks MISSION ESCAPE GAMES and/or MISSION (collectively herein, Opposer’s “MISSION Marks”). Attached hereto as Exhibit 1 are screenshots of Oakwon’s website at <www.missionescapegames.com> that I printed from the from the Internet Archive Wayback Machine, located at <archive.org>, and commonly known as and referred to hereinafter as the “Wayback Machine,” on January 24, 2017. These screen shots demonstrate Oakwon’s use of its MISSION Marks on its website in connection with the advertising and promotion of its services, and the sale of tickets, on June 28, 2014; December 16, 2014; January 12, 2015; May 10, 2015; and October 27, 2015.

3. More specifically, the entertainment services promoted, offered and provided by Oakwon under its MISSION Marks include arranging and hosting games in which a group of customers are “locked in a room,” each with a storyline or theme, and provided with a series of related puzzles and clues which, if solved, will allow them to unlock the door, or escape. The goal of each game is for the team of customers to work together to solve all of the clues in the room in order to escape before the end of the one-hour game period. Should customers be unable to successfully escape within one hour, they are “released.” These types of games are commonly referred to as “escape rooms”, “escape games”, or “room-escape games”, and have been an increasingly popular past-time in the United States since approximately 2013. Attached hereto as Exhibit 2 are copies of news articles printed from the Internet discussing the popularity of room-escape games in the United States.
4. Oakwon opened its first escape-games location under its MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark at 55-59 Chrystie St, Ground Floor #106, New York, NY 10002 (the “Manhattan Location”). Before opening to the general public, Oakwon first hosted market test games under the MISSION ESCAPE GAMES mark at the Manhattan location in or about March through early April 2014.
5. In or about November 2014, Oakwon opened its second escape games location under its MISSION Marks at 134-26 Northern Blvd, Flushing, NY, 11354 (the “Queens Location”).
6. Oakwon sells tickets for its services offered under the MISSION Marks to customers online via its website located at <www.missionescapegames.com>, in person at its physical locations, over the phone, and through third-party vendors such as Groupon.com and LivingSocial.com.

7. Between May 2014 and the end of October 2015, Oakwon sold over 37,000 tickets to games held at its Manhattan and Queens Locations under its MISSION Marks, totaling over [REDACTED] in business.
8. Oakwon has owned and operated a website at <www.missionescapegames.com> through which it has continuously promoted its services offered under its MISSION Marks, and through which it has sold tickets directly to customers, since at least as early of May 2014.
9. Oakwon has used its MISSION mark in a stylized form on its website at www.missionescapegames.com and in promotional and advertising materials, since at least as early as December 16, 2014 (see Exhibit 1), and on signage at its physical locations, since at least as early as June 09, 2014, as shown below:

- Oakwon commissioned this stylized design on or about May 20, 2014. Attached hereto as Exhibit 3 are screen prints from our MISSION ESCAPE GAMES Facebook profile, on which pictures of our Manhattan Location, displaying the stylized MISSION mark, were posted as early as June 09, 2014. Attached hereto as Exhibit 4 is a true and correct copy of the invoice for the creation of the stylized MISSION mark dated May 20, 2014.
10. During the period of May 22, 2014 through October 31, 2015, Oakwon sold tickets, through its website, to games that it held at its Manhattan and Queens Locations, to customers from at least 47 states (Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin) and the District of Columbia, as well as to customers from Canada, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

11. Attached hereto as Exhibit 5 are spreadsheets detailing such online ticket sales between May 22, 2014 through October 30, 2014, which I generated from Oakwon's business records maintained in the ordinary course of business, namely, Oakwon's Paypal e-commerce management system. More specifically, these spreadsheets identify the names of the customers that purchased tickets online during such time period, their e-mail addresses, the date of their online purchase, their telephone contact numbers and, by means of the telephone area codes, their geographic location. The first page of Exhibit 5 is a summary of the information contained in the remainder of the exhibit, identifying the total number of sale transactions per state and foreign territory.
12. Similarly, attached hereto as Exhibit 6 are spreadsheets detailing such online ticket sales between October 31, 2014 through April 30, 2015, which I generated from Oakwon's business records maintained in the ordinary course of business, namely, Oakwon's Stripe e-commerce management system. More specifically, these spreadsheets identify the number of tickets purchased by credit card on a given date, the total dollar amount of the credit card charge, the name on the credit card charged, and the city, state and zip code for the address associated with each credit card used to make the specified purchases. The first page of Exhibit 6 is a summary of the information contained in the remainder of the exhibit, identifying the total number of transactions and number of tickets sold per state and foreign country.

13. As reflected in Exhibits 5 and 6, during the period of May 22, 2014 through October 31, 2015, Oakwon sold tickets to its games provided under its MISSION Marks at its Manhattan and Queens Locations, via its website, to at least 1,240 customers residing outside of the state of New York.
14. Oakwon has continued to offer games under its MISSION Marks at both its Queens and Manhattan Locations to date, and from the period of November 01, 2015 through January 31, 2017, it has sold over 50,000 tickets, grossing over [REDACTED]
15. In addition to the general public, Oakwon has also promoted its services offered under its MISSION Marks as team-building exercises for other companies' employees, and has hosted groups from Barclays, Microsoft, Google, Yelp, Blackrock, Jetblue, Price Waterhouse Cooper, Bloomberg, Goldman Sachs, Pepsi, American Express, Chase Bank, Viacom, Equinox, Spotify, and Yahoo.
16. Oakwon has also worked with large movie production companies, offering film-inspired games and events, under its MISSION Marks, to promote cinema releases. Specifically, Oakwon has offered promotional movie events under its MISSION Marks for the films Penguins of Madagascar (throughout the month December 2014), The Gallows (June 27-28 2015), and Allegiant (Sunday March 13, 2016). Attached hereto as Exhibit 7 are true and correct copies of Oakwon's agreement with Twentieth Century Fox concerning the Penguins of Madagascar event promoted under its MISSION Marks, email correspondence between Oakwon and Twentieth Century Fox concerning the same, and a copy of a review of the Penguins of Madagascar promotional events written by RoomEscapeArtist.com.

17. Due to the success of the Queens and Manhattan Locations, Oakwon opened its third location under the MISSION Marks at 400 W. Disney Way Unit 313, Anaheim, CA 92802 (the “Anaheim Location”) in or about October 2016. Since its opening, over 1,500 tickets have been sold for games conducted under the MISSION Marks at the Anaheim Location, grossing over [REDACTED]
18. Oakwon has continuously promoted its services offered under the MISSION Marks through online deal sites through which it sells discounted tickets to its room escape games, such as via Groupon.com, from June 2014 to date, and via LivingSocial.com, from June 2014 through August 2016. Attached hereto as Exhibit 8 are screen prints of various promotions that Oakwon offered under its MISSION Marks through Groupon.com and LivingSocial.com during these time periods which I accessed through Oakwon’s vendor account history on these websites.
19. To further promote its services offered under the MISSION Marks, Oakwon has established and has maintained social media profiles on Instagram (<www.instagram.com/missionescapeus>), Twitter (www.twitter.com/missionescapeus), and Facebook (<www.facebook.com/missionescapegames>) featuring the MISSION Marks since May 2014.
20. In relation to Oakwon’s use of the MISSION Marks on Facebook, Oakwon has purchased and run advertisement campaigns promoting the services offered under its MISSION Marks through Facebook from May 2015 to date, at the cost of over [REDACTED] which have reached over approximately 5.1 million users. Moreover, as of the date of this declaration, Oakwon’s

MISSION ESCAPE GAMES Facebook profile has over 21,000 page likes, over 20,000 followers, and over 9,000 “check ins” since it was established. Attached hereto as Exhibit 9 are screen prints of MISSION ESCAPE GAMES Facebook profile and a screen print of Oakwon’s ads manager on Facebook showing the ad campaigns for its services offered under the MISSION Marks purchased as of January 25, 2017.

21. To promote sales under its MISSION Marks, Oakwon has purchased advertising campaigns on Yelp.com that have run from June 2015 to date. Oakwon originally agreed to spend approximately [REDACTED] per year, but in 2016 increased the amount spent on Yelp.com advertising to an annual total of approximately [REDACTED]. Attached hereto as Exhibit 10 is a copy of Oakwon’s advertising agreement with Yelp dated June 03, 2015 in relation to the promotion of the MISSION-branded services offered at its Manhattan Location.
22. Oakwon also advertises the services offered under its MISSION Marks through ads and promotions with Open Loop New York, a charter bus company which offers tours of New York City.
23. Oakwon’s Manhattan Location operated under its MISSION Marks is, as of the date of this declaration, ranked Number One on TripAdvisor.com’s list of Fun Activities & Games in New York City and has been awarded TripAdvisor.com’s Certificate of Excellence. Attached hereto as Exhibit 11 are screen shots of Oakwon’s Trip Advisor listing for its Manhattan Location noting its receipt of TripAdvisor.com’s Certificate of Excellence, and screen shots dated March 16, 2015 of TripAdvisor.com’s List of the Best “Fun Activities and Games in New York City” which features the Manhattan Location as Number One.

24. Oakwon's services offered under the MISSION Marks have been the subject of press features on Newsweek.com, ABC News Radio, and on RoomEscapeArtist.com. Attached hereto as Exhibit 12 are copies of these articles from Newsweek.com and RoomEscapeArtist.com.
25. Oakwon's Manhattan and Queens Location, operated under its MISSION Marks, have received RoomEscapeArtist.com's 2015 Golden Lock-In Award as featuring one of the top ten room-escape games out of 65 games played by RoomEscapeArtist.com in 2015. Attached hereto as Exhibit 13 is a copy of the results of RoomEscapeArtist.com's 2015 Golden Lock-In Awards.
26. Oakwon is currently in the process of launching two new locations under the MISSION Marks, one in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and the other in Hartford Connecticut, and has plans to open additional MISSION-branded locations elsewhere in the United States.

I declare, under penalty of perjury, that the foregoing statements are true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

The unbelievably lucrative business of escape rooms

By Sally French and Jessica Marmor Shaw

Published: July 21, 2015 11:28 a.m. ET

Where locking up your customers can lead to 800% revenue growth in one year

An earlier version of this article incorrectly stated the name of Doc Preuss.

Players search for clues while taking part in RoomEscape in Novi Sad, Serbia.

You and 10 other people are locked in a room. Words, numbers and pictures are scrawled on the walls, objects scattered. A disembodied voice announces there are 60 minutes remaining to escape. A frenzy sets in as people ransack the room, looking for clues leading to the key that will open the door that just locked behind you. Before you know it, the voice blares out: 10 minutes have passed ...

Part game, part theater, part team-building exercise, escape rooms are taking off around the world. And the growth has been explosive. The number of permanent rooms world-wide has gone from zero at the outset of 2010 to at least 2,800 today, according to MarketWatch calculations based on rooms registered to escape-room directories.

Nate Martin, co-founder and CEO of Puzzle Break, the first escape-room facility to open in the Pacific Northwest, invested $7,000 of his own money in 2013 to get the business off the ground. He recouped his initial investment within a month. Since then, the business has been profitable every month and, conservatively, is on track to gross over $600,000 in 2015. "Some months are record-breakingly fantastic," he says. "Some are only very good."

1. Door

You're locked inside with about 10 other people and have to escape. Of course, in an emergency situation, players can get out without a key. Twenty-two percent of rooms say they don't actually lock. In Dallas, Andrew McJannett-Smith and his wife, Traci, run Escape Expert, which opened in February 2015. "We started with negative income to now bringing in $70,000 a month," he says.

The concept was born in Japan, spread through Asia, then arrived in the U.S. in 2012. As of Friday, the site Escape Room Directory listed 367 rooms at 138 facilities in the U.S., with more registering on that site every week. Business appears to be booming: At popular locations, tickets sell out weeks in advance.

And it is now making its way into mainstream entertainment: The studios behind Tom Cruise's coming "Mission: Impossible" film erected escape rooms at AMC Theaters AMC, +1.41% this month for fans to "become IMF agents." Free tickets for those rooms sold out in New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles in less than 24 hours. Later this month on July 25, the Science Channel is debuting an escape-room-themed game show called "Race to Escape."

But many room owners and game enthusiasts are skeptical that the explosive growth can continue. And finding the key to success in this weird, new world may be the trickiest puzzle of all.

... 20 minutes have passed, and, at this point, you're likely knee-deep in puzzles, exchanging adrenaline-fueled shrieks with your room compatriots ...

In most escape rooms, clues lead to a physical key. But the story of why you're in the room — you're trapped in a mysterious lab! You're seeking lost treasure! You're stuck in a New York City-sized apartment! — and the way in which action unfolds differs by room and location.

"People are looking for a new type of experience," says Doc Preuss, a producer for Real Escape Games, which has rooms in San Francisco, New York and, soon, Los Angeles. It is run by SCRAP Entertainment Inc., which opened the first escape-game event in Japan in 2007. "It's cerebral, [and] it's exciting. The way we design [the games, there are these emotional highs. It's like a roller coaster. It's addictive."

Most games cost $25 to $30 per person for a one-hour game, and typically allow 10 to 12 players at a time. For owners, the chief costs are payroll and rent, plus the one-time expense of building the room out. Some rooms comprise little more than a table with pens and paper. Others involve elaborate sets and technical wizardry. For instance, The Exit Game in Los Angeles has players navigating a laser room.

SCRAP is known for keeping costs low, eschewing traditional marketing costs in favor of organic growth and renting the smallest room possible to ensure tickets sell out. "They feel they have failed if they are not 100% booked out," says Dan Egnor, an escape-game enthusiast and creator of the Escape Room Directory.

So far, the strategy appears to be paying off: SCRAP says revenues grew by 800% in its first year in the U.S. — a staggering figure even in light of today's fast growth. The company has been profitable and seen revenue grow every year since then.

SCRAP now has more than 25 rooms across 12 cities in Japan and is opening its second San Francisco location with Escape From the Jail on Polk Street in August.

"They were the only game in town for years," says Egnor. "Right now, a lot of local people equate the escape room with SCRAP."

... 10 minutes remaining. You get the sense that you are on the verge of finishing the puzzle ...

Escape-room challenges may be as tricky for owners as for players. The business model presents a host of hurdles: Each room can only be played once, real estate can be pricey, and rooms get beat up as hundreds of players tear through them each week in search of clues.

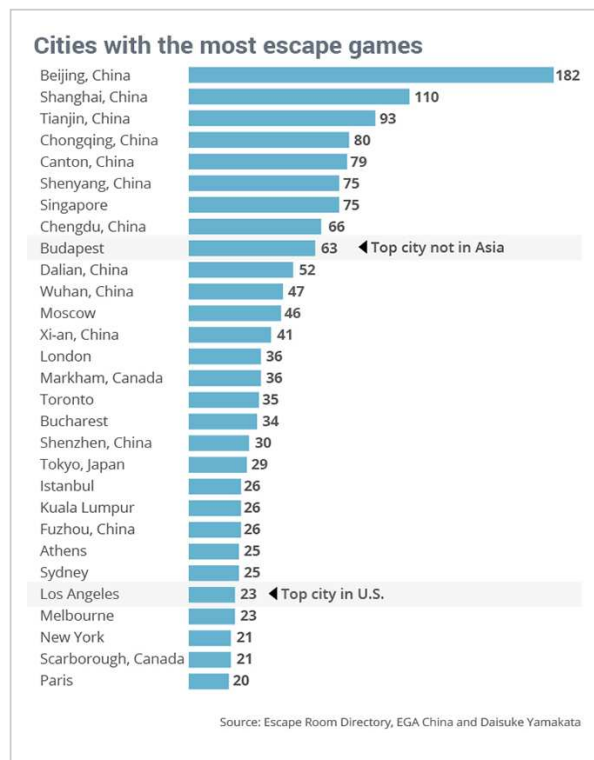

"You've got dozens of people in there every day manipulating every single object in the room, under the pressure of a deadline," says Puzzle Break's Martin.

Players in the heat of the moment have tried to climb walls and rip apart furniture. At SCRAP's Escape From the Time Travel Lab, an employee admitted he once saw a team attempt to wrap duct tape around his colleague in a failed attempt at finding the key.

"It's difficult to design an experience that looks amazing and can withstand the crushing churn of folks everyday," says Martin. "We've had to be creative with our material design."

Martin's business has thrived in Seattle, where it was the first game on the scene, but he shut down a room in San Francisco after finding it difficult to gain a foothold.

"In Seattle, we are understood to be far and away the best escape room. People know us. In San Francisco, they didn't."

Today the escape-room landscape is mostly dominated by smaller businesses, each operating one or a handful of rooms in a single city or region, many of them run by enthusiasts who saw the trend taking off and decided to strike out on their own, just as Martin did.

Businesses borrow ideas from each other liberally as U.S. intellectual-property laws do not cover game design. According to Scott Nicholson, a professor in game design at Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo, Ontario, who surveyed the operators of 175 escape-room facilities, this is actually spurring a rapid evolution in the industry, as room designers iterate on each other's ideas in a quest to one-up each other.

Until now, increasing competition has been good for everyone: for businesses, which benefit as people discover one escape room and then embark on a search of more, and for the players, who are being offered more selection and better game design. But this is shifting quickly.

"There is this tipping point that we're arriving at right now, where competition is no longer 100% a good thing," says

Martin. As unique as the escape-room category is today, he says, it won't be immune to "Disneyfication," in which a few major players emerge with high production values but an inclination toward "safe design decisions."

"You're going to start to see smaller operators go out of business and the larger side making more revenue," Martin says. He also expects to see larger operations eating up smaller ones through acquisitions. Some are moving into the franchise model, notably Real Escape Adventures of Trapped in a Room with a Zombie fame.

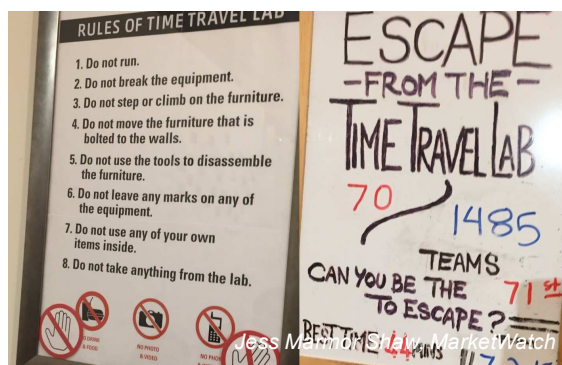

But this isn't all bad for the industry, he says. Smaller operations will be pushed harder than ever to produce cutting-edge experiences for superfans. "You never like to see people struggle in their business," says Martin. "But as a player of these things, as an 'enjoyer' of experiences, bigger, badder, better is always a good thing."

... 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 ... time's up! Once out of the room, your game master analyzes how you performed: One team member's crucial actions saved you 10 minutes, but a lapse in communication left a key clue unsolved. It occurs to you that this is the most fun you've ever had in a performance review.

According to Nicholson's survey, the average success rate for escape rooms is 41%, though rooms vary widely in difficulty. His research also shows 90% of facilities recognize the importance of debriefing after the game, for players to get a sense of how they performed in relation to other groups, and to generate what's known as "froth" — shared discussion of the activity after it is over.

The debriefing is also critical to transforming escape games from a fun Saturday-evening activity with friends into a team-building exercise that can be sold to corporate clients, a crucial revenue stream. For many escape rooms, corporate clients make up 50% of all business.

Signs outside Escape from the Time Travel Lab in San Francisco explain rules — no Internet, no climbing on furniture — as well as the success rate. So far, 70 of 1,485 teams have successfully escaped.

Corporate teams can fill escape rooms on weekdays, when rooms might otherwise sit empty. Larger corporations can become repeat clients, bringing new departments every week. And they can be sold elaborate packages and extras, with snacks for employees and meeting space provided adjacent to the escape room.

Companies can't seem to get enough of the escape room as a team-building exercise. Egnor says it is easy to see the appeal: "A lot of classic off-sites are very tame and not challenging, like cheese tasting. The more challenging ones often had a physical component. ... This is a very inclusive off-site. It's not paintball."

At Escape Expert in Dallas, the corporate package includes video footage of employees playing the game for "review at a later stage."

Companies that have participated in escape room games as team-building experiences:

Source: <http://www.puzzlebreak.us/teambuilding/>

McJannett-Smith says that Dallas–Fort Worth airport brought in a group of employees, and that he was told someone at the airport was looking to study the CCTV footage for help with a vice president position that was up for grabs.

McJannett-Smith says he was told they wanted "to find out which ones were the natural leaders, which ones thought out of the box, which ones were the peacocks and pretended to be the ones who did stuff."

An airport spokesperson says that the Escape Expert experience was used as a team-building exercise, but nothing more than that.

Beyond team building, game owners are finding other unique venues and forms to expand into. Puzzle Break opened a room on a cruise ship. SCRAP has put on massive games in huge venues like San Francisco's AT&T Park, where they had 6,000 players, each paying $33 to $38, come through in a day.

SCRAP is also aiming to expand more into licensed games to, for instance, create an escape room based on a popular film in partnership with a movie studio, much like AMC's "Mission: Impossible" promotion.

Puzzle Break's Martin was a videogame product manager before forging into the escape-room business. He traded virtual for real life, and he mostly feels it was a trade up.

"The part I like the most about Puzzle Break as opposed to videogames is that at any point I can pop into a room game and watch people having an amazing time doing something I've created. You can't do that with a videogame."

It is an enormously satisfying thing, to see people enjoying your work live, he says. That is, "until we have to replace the 17 door-knob handles."

A previous version of this article implied in a quote from Andrew McJannett-Smith that the HR department of Dallas-Fort Worth Airport asked for CCTV footage of its employees at Escape Expert. The HR department at the airport had no involvement with Escape Expert.

There's no "escaping" the growing popularity of these games

Forget bars and nightclubs. People these days are increasingly spending their money on live action puzzle-solving games.

The object of these games is to unravel a series of clues in less than an hour to "escape" from the room where they are confined. Their popularity is exploding in the U.S., Asia and Europe as operators are finding that the tests of puzzle-solving mettle appeal to a wide range of people and also are attractive to corporations and other organizations interested in team-building exercises.

One venue, The Escape Game, plans to add another location in its hometown of Nashville and plans to expand to Austin, Texas, and Orlando, Florida, over the next few months, says Jonathan Murrell, one of the company's founders.

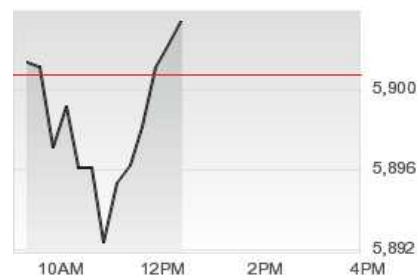

"No one has established themselves as a multi-city player," he said, adding that it remains to be seen who will dominate the industry.

The origins of the escape games are clouded in mystery as well. A Japanese company called SCRAP Entertainment claims on its website to have developed the first "live action game" called The Real Escape Game in 2007. Five years later, the Real Escape Game made its U.S. debut in San Francisco. There are now two Real Escape Rooms in San Francisco and the company has "made partnerships to open up the room in Toronto and San Jose", according to Kazuya Iwata, who runs SCRAP's U.S. operation, adding that there are plans to expand the room to several other U.S. cities by the end of the year. Among the markets it's targeting are New York City and Los Angeles.

"So we have bigger format of games, which over 1,000 people play the game at the same time, and we call it Real Escape Game," he writes in an email. "Our next big project is to hold Escape from the Stadium in several cities in the US in early next year."

Conversely, a former social worker from Hungary named Attila Gyurkovics told the New York Times that he developed a game called ParaPark in 2011. "Within months of opening, versions of ParaPark were popping up all over the city," the paper said.

Escape Hunt, which has several locations in Australia and Asia, says on its website that it plans to have 50 locations by the end of the year including Paris, Cancun, Mexico and Barcelona, Spain and 300 by the end of 2015. The company also said it would have U.S. locations "very soon."

Escape the Room NYC, the live action puzzle-solving game that has become one of the hottest activities in New York City, is going to expand to five additional cities before the end of the year. Its newest location in Philadelphia is due to open this weekend, according to Victor Blake, the ex-Wall Streeter who has turned his passion for puzzles into a business.

Word about the games is spreading through social media.

"We don't really advertise," said Blake, who was overseeing the final touches at Escape the Room's new Philadelphia home, in an interview. "Mostly, it's just word of mouth."

Well, the word has certainly gotten out since Escape the Room opened for business last November. TripAdvisor ranks it third on its list of "Things to do in New York City," edging out The Metropolitan Opera and the hit musical "Jersey Boys." A few months ago, it was fourteenth. The game has also attracted the attention of the New York Times, and The New York Daily News; Facebook and Google are among the companies that have used "Escape the Room" as a team-building exercise.

Escape Games

The premise of "Escape the Room" is simple: A group of people is locked inside a room and they have an hour to analyze clues that enable them to escape. Only about 20 percent of the people who play the game are able to solve the puzzle. Even if people are stumped they are able to leave after the hour is up. The company's website jokes that it "legally required" to do so.

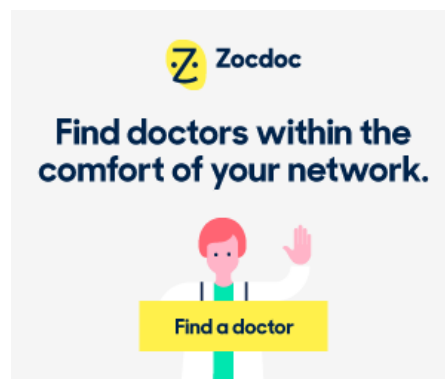

"Part of the game is to figure out what's important and what's not," Blake said.

That was precisely the problem that network engineer Adam Marti and his friends experienced when they recently played the game.

"Everyone was scrambling pretty hard until the very end," he said in an interview. "There were clues hidden everywhere. ... The main puzzle literally was the piece of paper that sat on the desk for a really long time."

Marti's group solved the puzzle with 20 seconds to spare.

In an interview, Blake said he wasn't worried about puzzle solutions being leaked on the Internet. Playing the game costs about $28 a ticket.

Fans of the game abound. "We decided it would be a really fun group activity versus going to a bar, having a barbecue or something like that," said Ryan Kelly, who was in Marti's group, in an interview. He said he had fun and would do it again.

Blake declined to disclose any financial details about Escape the Room, including its sources of capital, other than to stress that he isn't looking to make a quick profit and that he was reinvesting in the "quality of the game."

"We hire real lightening designers and real sound engineers," he said.

That added attention to detail should help Escape the Room stand out in an increasingly crowded market.

VIDEO GAMES

In Escape Rooms, Video Games Meet Real Life

By CHRIS SUELLENTROP JUNE 3, 2014

Everything is interactive these days, thanks to video games and the Internet, even Neil Patrick Harris's forthcoming autobiography, which is being written in the style of a 1980s Choose Your Own Adventure book. One of the most interesting fusions of digital culture with an older form — in this case, theater — is the escape room, which locks people behind a closed door and asks them to find a way out.

In these live-action games — the creators insist that they are games first, rather than immersive theater — there are no Houdini-style bindings for the friends or strangers who agree to be trapped together, just puzzles to solve and codes to crack. And the door is opened after an hour even if the players are stumped.

But you're apt to find yourself racing the clock anyway, trying to decipher clues to reveal the combination of a lock that opens a chest that hides photographs that contain hints on how to read a map that leads to another mystery within another mystery within another mystery.

After years of popularity in Asia and, more recently, on the West Coast, escape rooms have arrived in New York with increasing frequency. Escape the Room NYC began an open-ended run in February not far from the Empire State Building. The Real Escape Game, which says that it invented the phenomenon in 2007 in Japan, came to Webster Hall in the East Village over the weekend and has plans to return this year. Trapped NYC is scheduled to open on the Lower East Side on the same weekend this month that The Purge: Breakout, a promotion for the horror film “The Purge: Anarchy,” heads to Coney Island.

We usually think of the digital realm as an imitation of the physical. Many early video games, for example, were crude translations of existing physical games; table tennis was an especially popular choice. But escape rooms are an example of the reverse: the physical world mimicking the virtual one.

They were inspired directly by web browser games like Crimson Room and iPhone apps like Doors and Rooms. The makers of these games are unapologetically trying to bring the pleasures of video games to life.

“Video games are very much about finding clues and recognizing the things in your location that you’re supposed to destroy or reveal in some way,” said Timothy Haskell, who designed two escape rooms for Trapped NYC.

Video games, like escape rooms, are about being at the center of a drama rather than the periphery. “All players can be the main character in the story, not watching the character,” said Kazuya Iwata, who adapts the Japanese-created puzzles in the Real Escape Game for American audiences.

Theater and video games were cousins of a sort even before escape rooms came along. Some video game designers say that of the canonical arts, theater most closely resembles their craft. At least, the creative challenges of staging a play are the closest analogue to what it’s like to make a game.

“They have the most similar problem set,” Ken Levine, the writer and creative director of the video game BioShock, once told me. He was referring specifically to the artists at Punchdrunk, the British theater company behind immersive productions like “Sleep No More” and “The Drowned Man: A Hollywood Fable.”

Like a theatrical director, a game designer doesn’t entirely control what the viewer or player is looking at and so must draw attention with tricks of lighting and set design.

The artistic director of Punchdrunk, Felix Barrett, recently told The Guardian that going to see “The Drowned Man” is like experiencing the role-playing video game Skyrim or the indie sensation Gone Home.

Compared with “Sleep No More” or a well-made video game, escape rooms can feel primitive. Early video games were mainly about the joy of a particular in-game action, whether it was shooting or jumping or solving puzzles. But they often struggled to connect those actions to a coherent story.

Similarly, the two rooms I experienced at Escape the Room NYC were fun to puzzle through; still, the fiction wasn’t deeply integrated. There was no explanation for why I (along with a couple of families from New York and a bachelor party) was locked in a room, nor was any attempt made to suggest why it might be important to get out within an hour.

Escape From the Werewolf Village, which the Real Escape Game brought to Webster Hall, did a better job of explaining the stakes: Solve these puzzles, or the villagers will be eaten by lycanthropes. In some ways it was more theatrical, with a host in a black dress and red heels who spoke while spotlighted on a stage to an audience of about 60.

But it was less physically involving than the rooms at Escape the Room NYC, one of which involved finding a battery to play a message on a voice recorder and a flash drive that was later inserted into a computer — but where’s the mouse? — that played a video that led to ... more clues. (One well-disguised piece of electronics gets ripped off a wall “every other day,” said Victor Blake, the creator of Escape the Room NYC.)

In contrast, most of Escape From the Werewolf Village was played at a table that was set with sharpened pencils, clipboards, a sealed envelope and a small chest with a four-number lock attached to it. We were tasked with solving a maze, a math problem, a crosswordlike puzzle, a logic game involving colors, several letter-based codes and more.

“We are coming from the puzzle side,” Mr. Iwata said of the comparison with Punchdrunk. “They are coming from the theater. The cross point would be our goal.”

Even in their nascent form, escape rooms do have one advantage over “Sleep No More” and other immersive theatrical productions. They give players a charge from having direct influence over the actual outcome of the drama, not merely what to look at, where to go, when to change directions.

And unlike a video game, all five senses are involved. In one room at Escape the Room NYC sits a box containing vials marked “evidence.” Without giving too much away, one vial emits a familiar odor.

“I liked the idea of a smelly clue,” Mr. Blake said.

Correction: June 7, 2014

A critic’s notebook article on Wednesday about escape room games, in which people are locked behind a closed door and try to find their way out, misstated the name of a game in some instances. As the article correctly noted elsewhere, it is Escape the Room NYC, not Escape Game NYC. And a picture caption with the article misstated the given name of one of the people shown playing the game. He is Keith Nevitt, not Heath.

A version of this article appears in print on June 4, 2014, on Page C1 of the New York edition with the headline: Gaming Culture Seeps Into Escape Rooms.

Mission Escape Games: Special Mission – Penguins of Madagascar [Review]

7 december 2014 by david spira, posted in reviews

A few things to know

This is an escape game designed for children 8 to 17 or so. It is a limited engagement, and will only be around for a few more weeks.

Full disclosure: The folks at Mission Escape Games let us play this one for free.

We tried to commandeer some of our friend's children to play this with us, but schedules didn't quite work. We still wanted to try the game so that we could get a sense of what a room escape for kids could be like. This was for science.

Plot

This game is a promotional event produced in conjunction with DreamWorks to support the movie "Penguins of Madagascar." It's a great idea for both room escapes and movies. I hope to see more of this.

"The Penguins need your help to make their escape.

Help Skipper, Rico, Private and Kowalski to solve puzzles and complete their Mission!!"

Kids Game

This really is a room escape game for kids. It's brightly lit. The room is pretty beautiful and completely unintimidating.

The game is deliberately linear, and each step along the way introduces you to a new character from the movie.

It's an escape game with training wheels, and it works really well.

Challenge

While this game is designed for the under 18 crowd, there is still some noteworthy challenge.

Our four person team of experienced room escapees breezed through 95% of this game in very little time... Then we spent FOREVER trying to solve the final puzzle.

The big TV in the room displays clues provided by the game master (who is always watching via camera). He kept giving us vague hints:

- "Think like a kid"
- "Think more like a kid"
- "You're still thinking like adults"
- "Stop thinking like you've done a room escape before"
- "You're on the right track"
- "Keep playing with the method you're trying"

We eventually figured the thing out, but only after a mortifying amount of time elapsed.

Our the game master told us afterwards that the trend with the final puzzle is that adults can't figure it out, and kids have a whole lot less trouble with it.

No hyperbole, I don't think I've ever had this much trouble with a door puzzle in a room escape. It was hilarious.

Should I play this game?

Bearing in mind that this game will only exist for a few more weeks...

There aren't many room escape games for kids. If you have kids who would enjoy a bit of brainy adventure, go do it. It's a unique; physically interactive; and fun.

We never expected to recommend this game for a team of adults, and we aren't going to. However you can have fun with this as an adult in the same way that you'll enjoy watching a good animated movie with a kid, even if it's not a movie you would pick if you didn't have children with you.

After this room closes, the Mission Escape Games team has plans to transform the room into something a bit more serious. I'd say wait for that if you don't have any offspring to bring along.

Book an hour with Mission Escape Games, and tell them that the Room Escape Artist sent you.

This was so much fun! There were 4 of us and we played the Darkest hour which is the hardest one. We didn't finish but we were close. The game master was very nice and helpful at giving hints. Want to go back and try another room!!

This Client Information sheet, the Master Advertising Terms, and its incorporated Purchase Order(s) (collectively, the "Advertising Agreement") constitute a binding agreement between the Client and Yelp Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Yelp"). By signing, including electronically signing, and returning it to Yelp at the number indicated on the fax cover sheet or as otherwise instructed by Yelp, you indicate that you have read, accept, and agree to the Advertising Agreement on behalf of, and as an authorized representative of, the Client identified. The Advertising Agreement becomes effective between the parties as of the date signed by Client ("Effective Date"). The Advertising Agreement is voidable by Yelp if not accepted by Client and received by Yelp within the calendar month in which it is sent to Client.

Please note that businesses cannot pay to remove, reorder, or otherwise impact reviews. If you decide not to enroll in a Yelp Ad Program, that won't affect your reviews, either.

Ad Program Descriptions

Enhanced Profile Program: allows Client to access premium features in connection with its business profile page, such as competitive ad removal, photo slideshow, and account support.

Featured Video: Client must provide a video that the Client has the rights to display on the Yelp Site, subject to Yelp's specifications and guidelines. Yelp will display the video for the duration of the associated Ad Program.

Video Production: Yelp's third party video production partner will produce a brief, compelling video about Client's business, shot at Client's location by a professional videographer.

Cost-Per-Click ("CPC") Auction-based Auto-bidding Program: Yelp delivers a variable and unguaranteed number of ad impressions to the Site to promote Client's business, as determined at Yelp's sole discretion based on available inventory and other factors, and Client pays Yelp for the number of clicks during a given period of time. A "click" occurs when a Site user clicks on an ad impression. Yelp establishes a minimum bid price per click, which is the least the Client would pay for a click and which Yelp may change at any time. If there are no competing advertisers, Client pays the minimum bid price. If there are competing advertisers, the winning advertiser will pay the minimum amount of money necessary to beat the second-place advertiser, based on relevance and bid price. Client agrees to allow Yelp to implement an auto-bidding strategy whereby Client's bid price per click varies based on relevance, competition, and other factors, in an effort to maximize the number of clicks Client receives.

Call Tracking Program: Replaces the phone number displayed on the Client's business profile pages on the Site with temporary local or toll-free tracking phone numbers. Tracking numbers provided by Yelp are the property of Yelp or its service providers, and cannot be retained by Client. Client will be charged monthly at the rate set forth herein. Local numbers are based on availability. If local numbers are not available in a specific area code, Yelp reserves the right to substitute toll free tracking numbers. As part of Call Tracking Program, Client will receive monthly call data reports via email and have access to additional call details through an online dashboard provided by Telmetrics subject to Client's acceptance of Telmetrics' Terms of Use.

MASTER ADVERTISING TERMS

I. Ad Programs

Yelp Inc. ("Yelp") will provide the advertising services that Client (also referred to as "you" and "your") purchases from Yelp from time to time ("Ad Programs") in connection with Yelp's websites, mobile applications, and other properties (including other third party properties that the parties may agree upon in writing) ("Site") pursuant to these Master Advertising Terms (the "Terms"). Each such purchase will be set forth in a purchase order agreed to in writing by both parties that sets forth the Ad Programs being purchased, applicable fees, the date the Ad Program starts ("Service Start Date"), the duration of the advertising commitment ("Commitment Period"), and any renewal terms, among other information ("Purchase Order"). Each agreed upon Purchase Order is governed by and incorporated into these Terms, and Client's initial Purchase Order is hereby attached hereto. Yelp may at any time replace the features associated with any Ad Program with features of substantially similar value. An "ad impression" is a single display of an advertisement on the Site that incorporates content provided by Client and/or the Site's users. An "ad click" is a single instance for which Yelp records that a user clicked on an ad impression. A "user view" is a single instance for which Yelp records that the Site, or a particular page or portion of the Site, was accessed or viewed.

II. Fees and Payment

Client will pay Yelp the fees specified in each Purchase Order for the duration of its term. The fees are fixed for the duration of the Commitment Period specified in each Purchase Order, but may be modified by Yelp thereafter by providing one (1) month's prior written notice to Client. All fees are net of any taxes Client may be required to pay in its taxing jurisdiction. Payments are due in advance of the period for which they apply, or as otherwise set forth in the applicable Purchase Order. Unpaid amounts or errors may be billed in subsequent invoices. If Client's payment method fails or Client's account is past due, Yelp may collect past due amounts using other collection mechanisms, and Client agrees to pay all expenses associated with such collection, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

IF CLIENT PROVIDES YELP WITH CREDIT CARD, DEBIT CARD, OR BANK ACCOUNT INFORMATION, CLIENT AUTHORIZES YELP TO USE SUCH PAYMENT INFORMATION TO AUTOMATICALLY CHARGE CLIENT ON A RECURRING BASIS TO COLLECT ALL FEES DUE HEREUNDER. CLIENT REPRESENTS THAT HE OR SHE IS AUTHORIZED TO INCUR CHARGES AGAINST THE PAYMENT CARD USED TO PURCHASE AD PROGRAMS. THE FORM OF PAYMENT CANNOT BE CHANGED OR ALTERED UNLESS ALL AMOUNTS DUE UNDER THE TERMS HAVE BEEN PAID IN FULL OR OTHERWISE AGREED TO BY THE PARTIES IN WRITING.

YELP WILL UPDATE CLIENT'S PAYMENT CARD INFORMATION IF YELP IS NOTIFIED BY CLIENT'S BANK OR CREDIT CARD PROVIDER THAT THE PAYMENT CARD INFORMATION HAS CHANGED OR HAS BEEN UPDATED.

III. Representations and Warranties

Each party represents and warrants to the other that it is duly organized, validly existing, and in good standing under the laws of the jurisdiction in which it was organized; all contact and entity information is complete, correct and current, and the execution and delivery of the Terms, and the performance of the transactions contemplated hereby, are within its corporate powers, and have been duly authorized by all necessary corporate action.

Client represents and warrants to Yelp that any information or materials that Client provides in connection with Ad Programs (“Advertising Materials”) will (a) be true and complete, (b) not contain any material that violates Yelp’s content guidelines or that is otherwise unlawful, defamatory or obscene, or that infringes or violates any third -party rights (including any intellectual property rights or privacy or publicity rights) or that may encourage a criminal offense or otherwise give rise to civil liability and (c) comply with all applicable laws and regulations in its performance of the Terms (including all applicable privacy / data protection laws and regulations and laws related to Promotions). “Promotions” are any contest, sweepstakes, coupon or other promotion appearing on or promoted through the Site by Client. Yelp reserves the right to reject or remove any Advertising Materials at its sole discretion, and to alter any Advertising Materials to conform to technical specifications.

Client further represents and warrants to Yelp that Client will not, and will not authorize or induce any other party, to: (x) generate automated, fraudulent or otherwise invalid ad impressions, inquiries, conversions, ad clicks or other actions; (y) use any automated means or form of scraping or data extraction to access, query or otherwise collect Yelp content and reviews from the Site, except as expressly permitted by Yelp or (z) use any Yelp trademarks in any manner without Yelp’s prior written consent. All rights not expressly granted to Client hereunder are reserved by Yelp.

IV. Information About and Use of the Site

The Site allows consumers to post ratings and reviews about businesses like Client’s. Purchasing Ad Programs does not impact ratings or reviews. The Site employs automated software in an effort to showcase the most reliable and useful reviews while displaying other reviews less prominently. Client understands that while Yelp uses such automated software to identify potentially less helpful reviews, the software may sometimes suppress legitimate reviews or fail to detect illegitimate reviews. Client’s purchase of Ad Programs will not influence the automated software or otherwise allow or enable Client, directly or indirectly, to alter reviews or impact whether, where, or how reviews appear on the Site. Yelp disclaims all liability arising from Yelp’s access to Client’s account on Client’s behalf in order to make changes or post information to the Site (“Client Instructions”). It is Client’s responsibility to confirm that Client Instructions are executed as requested. Client’s use of the Site, including any use by someone else acting on Client’s instructions, is governed by the Terms of Service posted here: <http://www.yelp.com/static?p=tos> (“TOS”).

V. Term and Termination

These Terms become effective between the parties as of the date Client executes the Advertising Agreement (the “Effective Date”). Each Purchase Order will become effective on the date of Client’s signature, and will remain in effect until terminated as provided below. For Ad Programs that do not include a CPC program, Client may terminate the Purchase Order by providing written notice, including email, to Client’s account management contact at Yelp on or before the 15th day of the month in order for the Purchase Order to terminate at the end of that month. If Client provides written notice after the 15th day of the month, then the Purchase Order will terminate at the end of the following month. For Ad Programs that do include a CPC program, Client may terminate the Purchase Order on any day of the month by providing thirty (30) days’ written notice, including email, to Client’s account management contact at Yelp. For all Ad Programs, with or without CPC, any termination by Client during the Commitment Period, other than termination for Yelp’s material breach of the Agreement, is subject to payment of an Early Termination Fee as set forth in the Purchase Order, and as explained below.

RECOGNIZING THE UP-FRONT SALES, SETUP, AND OPPORTUNITY COSTS THAT YELP BEARS IN CONNECTION WITH CLIENT PURCHASE ORDERS, AS WELL AS OTHER DAMAGES THAT BEAR A REASONABLE RELATIONSHIP TO THE RANGE OF ACTUAL DAMAGES THAT, AS OF THE EFFECTIVE DATE, THE PARTIES ANTICIPATE WOULD FLOW FROM AN EARLY TERMINATION BY CLIENT, AND IN RECOGNITION OF THE DISCOUNTED PRICING OFFERED BY YELP IN EXCHANGE FOR THE COMMITMENT PERIOD, CLIENT AGREES TO PAY THE EARLY TERMINATION FEE SET FORTH IN ANY PURCHASE ORDER, IF CLIENT TERMINATES SUCH PURCHASE ORDER AFTER THE EFFECTIVE DATE AND BEFORE THE END OF ITS COMMITMENT PERIOD.

Yelp may terminate any Purchase Order or the Advertising Agreement at any time for any or no reason without liability, effective immediately, by providing written notice to Client. In the event of such termination, Client will immediately pay all unpaid fees through the date of termination, and Yelp will reimburse any fees that were prepaid for Ad Programs to be rendered after the date of such termination. If Client’s Purchase Order specifies that it does not automatically renew after the Commitment Period the Purchase Order will automatically terminate at the end of the Commitment Period, otherwise the Purchase Order will renew on a month-to-month basis.

If a subsequent Purchase Order is executed between the parties, then the older Purchase Order shall terminate on the latest Purchase Order's Service Start Date in order to prevent having two (2) or more Purchase Orders effective at the same time, unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties in the Purchase Order.

VI. YELP'S DISCLAIMER OF WARRANTIES

CLIENT ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT AD PROGRAMS ARE PROVIDED TO CLIENT ON AN "AS IS", "WITH ALL FAULTS" AND "AS AVAILABLE" BASIS. YELP MAKES NO WARRANTIES, EITHER EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, ABOUT THE AD PROGRAMS AND EXPRESSLY DISCLAIMS THE WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY AND WARRANTY OF FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. FURTHERMORE, TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, YELP SPECIFICALLY DISCLAIMS ALL WARRANTIES AND GUARANTEES REGARDING (I) THE PERFORMANCE, QUALITY AND RESULTS OF THE AD PROGRAMS, INCLUDING AD CLICK RATES, CONVERSIONS, AND ANY USER-GENERATED CONTENT THAT APPEARS IN YOUR AD PROGRAMS, (II) THE ACCURACY OF THE INFORMATION AND METRICS THAT YELP PROVIDES IN CONNECTION WITH THE SITE OR AD PROGRAMS (E.G., TRAFFIC, VIEWS, VISITORS, USERS, DEMOGRAPHICS, AND BEHAVIORAL INFORMATION ABOUT VISITORS AND USERS), AND (III) THE PLACEMENT, CONTENT, PROMOTIONAL VALUE, QUALITY, TIMING, OR NUMBER OF AD IMPRESSIONS. YELP SHALL NOT BE LIABLE FOR NON-PERFORMANCE DUE TO CAUSES BEYOND ITS REASONABLE CONTROL. WHILE YELP WILL TRY TO TARGET AD IMPRESSIONS TO PARTICULAR USERS, TYPES OF USERS, USER LOCATIONS, USER QUERIES, OR OTHER USER BEHAVIORS, YELP MAY NOT BE ABLE TO ACHIEVE A CLIENT'S SPECIFIC EXPECTATION OF ACCURATE AD TARGETING.

VII. LIMITATIONS OF LIABILITY

(a) THIRD PARTIES MAY INADVERTENTLY OR FOR FRAUDULENT OR IMPROPER PURPOSES GENERATE AD IMPRESSIONS, USER VIEWS, CALLS OR AD CLICKS ("THIRD-PARTY ACTIVITY"), WHICH MAY IMPACT THE FEES YOU PAY YELP AND THE PERCEIVED EFFECTIVENESS OF AD PROGRAMS. CLIENT ACCEPTS THE RISK OF THIRD-PARTY ACTIVITY WITHOUT LIABILITY TO YELP. AS SUCH, THE PARTIES AGREE THAT YELP HAS NO LIABILITY FOR CLAIMS ARISING FROM OR IN CONNECTION WITH THIRD-PARTY ACTIVITY EXCEPT WHERE AND TO THE EXTENT PROHIBITED BY LAW, IN WHICH CASE YELP'S MAXIMUM LIABILITY AND CLIENT'S EXCLUSIVE REMEDY IS A REFUND IN THE FORM OF REPLACEMENT ADVERTISING SERVICES ON YELP EQUAL TO THE NUMBER OF THIRD-PARTY ACTIVITY. TO THE EXTENT THAT YELP ITSELF INADVERTENTLY GENERATES AD IMPRESSIONS, USER VIEWS, OR AD CLICKS, YELP'S MAXIMUM LIABILITY AND CLIENT'S EXCLUSIVE REMEDY IS A REFUND IN THE FORM OF REPLACEMENT ADVERTISING SERVICES EQUAL TO THE NUMBER OF SUCH INVALID AD IMPRESSIONS, USER VIEWS, OR AD CLICKS, EXCEPT WHERE AND TO THE EXTENT PROHIBITED BY LAW. YELP'S MAXIMUM LIABILITY AND CLIENT'S EXCLUSIVE REMEDY IN THE EVENT OF ANY UNDER-DELIVERY OF AD IMPRESSIONS IN ANY GIVEN MONTH IS, AT YELP'S SOLE DISCRETION, FOR YELP TO EITHER (I) DELIVER THE SHORTFALL OF AD IMPRESSIONS IN SUBSEQUENT MONTHS OR (II) PROVIDE A REFUND OF THE OVERCHARGED AMOUNT, EXCEPT WHERE AND TO THE EXTENT PROHIBITED BY LAW.

(b) FOR ALL OTHER CLAIMS ARISING FROM, RELATED TO, OR IN CONNECTION WITH A PURCHASE ORDER, AD PROGRAMS, OR THE TERMS THAT ARE NOT EXPRESSLY ADDRESSED IN SECTION VII (a) ABOVE, YELP'S (INCLUDING ITS AFFILIATES, DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, AND EMPLOYEES) MAXIMUM AGGREGATE LIABILITY AND CLIENT'S EXCLUSIVE AGGREGATE REMEDY IS THE TOTAL FEES PAYABLE TO YELP HEREUNDER DURING THE SPECIFIED COMMITMENT PERIOD EXCEPT WHERE AND TO THE EXTENT PROHIBITED BY APPLICABLE LAW.

(c) OTHER THAN AS MAY BE CONTAINED IN AN EARLY TERMINATION FEE INDICATED IN A PURCHASE ORDER, NEITHER PARTY NOR ITS AFFILIATES, DIRECTORS, OFFICERS, AND EMPLOYEES WILL BE LIABLE FOR ANY INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, CONSEQUENTIAL, SPECIAL, OR EXEMPLARY DAMAGES (INCLUDING LOSS OF PROFITS OR REVENUE, OR INTERRUPTION OF BUSINESS) ARISING FROM, RELATED TO, OR IN CONNECTION WITH A PURCHASE ORDER, THE AD PROGRAMS, THE SITE, OR THESE TERMS, REGARDLESS OF THE THEORY OF LIABILITY, EVEN IF A PARTY HAS BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES. THE LIMITATIONS SET FORTH IN THIS SECTION VII SHALL APPLY REGARDLESS OF WHETHER THE LIABILITY ARISES OUT OF BREACH OF CONTRACT, BREACH OF WARRANTY, TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE AND STRICT LIABILITY) OR ANY OTHER LEGAL THEORY.

VIII. Indemnification

Client will indemnify, defend, and hold Yelp and its officers, directors, agents, and employees harmless from and against any and all claims, actions, losses, damages, liabilities, costs and expenses (including but not limited to attorneys' fees and court costs) (collectively a "Third Party Claim") arising out of or in connection with (i) the Advertising Materials, Client Instructions, or Client's use of Ad Programs, (ii) any breach of representations or warranties provided under these Terms by Client in Section III, (iii) any Promotion, including any claims for any violation by the Promotion of any applicable law, rule or regulation, (iv) Client's products or services or the provision thereof to end users or (v) if applicable, failure to obtain the consent from all parties to recorded phone calls originating from the Tracking Numbers if you have enrolled in the Pay-Per-Call Program. Yelp will notify Client promptly of any Third Party Claim for which it seeks indemnification and will permit Client to control the defense of such Third Party Claim with counsel chosen by Client; provided, that Client will not enter into any settlement that contains any admission of or stipulation to any guilt, fault, liability or wrongdoing on the part of Yelp without Yelp's prior written consent.

IX. Choice of Law and Arbitration

(a) Any claim, controversy, cause of action or dispute that might arise between Client and Yelp ("Claim") will be exclusively governed by laws of the United States of America and the State of California consistent with the Federal Arbitration Act without regard to conflict of law provisions or giving effect to any principles that may provide for the application of the laws of another jurisdiction. Client agrees that any subpoena, third-party discovery request, or other third-party process directed to Yelp must issue from, or be domesticated by, the state or federal courts located within San Francisco County, California.

(b) All Claims must be exclusively and finally resolved and settled by final and binding arbitration administered by and in accordance with the Commercial Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") before a single arbitrator who is a member of the AAA. Arbitrations will be held in San Francisco, California, but the parties may choose for themselves whether to appear in person, by phone, or through the submission of documents. The arbitrator will issue a ruling in writing, and will detail all findings of fact and law upon which the ruling was made. The arbitrator will not have the power to commit errors of law or legal reasoning, and the ruling may be vacated or corrected on appeal to a court of competent jurisdiction for such errors. The arbitrator's ruling will otherwise be final and binding on all parties, and may be entered in any court of competent jurisdiction. NOTWITHSTANDING THE FOREGOING, FOR ANY CLAIM THAT IS NOT SUBJECT TO ARBITRATION, YOU AGREE TO SUBMIT AND CONSENT TO THE PERSONAL AND EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION IN, AND THE EXCLUSIVE VENUE OF, THE STATE AND FEDERAL COURTS LOCATED WITHIN SAN FRANCISCO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

(c) CLIENT AND YELP AGREE THAT EACH MAY BRING OR PARTICIPATE IN CLAIMS AGAINST THE OTHER ONLY IN THEIR RESPECTIVE INDIVIDUAL CAPACITIES, AND NOT AS A PLAINTIFF OR CLASS MEMBER IN ANY PURPORTED CLASS OR REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING. UNLESS BOTH CLIENT AND YELP AGREE OTHERWISE, THE ARBITRATOR MAY NOT CONSOLIDATE OR JOIN THE CLAIMS OF OTHER PERSONS OR PARTIES WHO MAY BE SIMILARLY SITUATED, AND MAY NOT OTHERWISE PRESIDE OVER ANY FORM OF A REPRESENTATIVE OR CLASS PROCEEDING. IF A CLAIM IMPLICATES THIS SUBSECTION (C), AND THIS SUBSECTION (C) IS FOUND TO BE INVALID, UNENFORCEABLE OR ILLEGAL BY A COURT, SUCH CLAIM MUST BE ADJUDICATED BY A COURT AND NOT BY AN ARBITRATOR.

X. Miscellaneous

(a) Any of Client's terms or conditions that are in addition to or different from those contained in or added by way of interlineation to the Advertising Agreement, including any Purchase Order, as originally provided to Client by Yelp that are not separately expressly agreed to in writing by both parties are deemed material and are hereby objected to and rejected by Yelp. No conditions, printed or otherwise, appearing on other contracts, orders or copy instructions that conflict with, vary, or add to this Advertising Agreement will be binding on Yelp, and any conflicting or additional terms contain in any other documents or oral discussions are void. The Advertising Agreement embodies the entire and exclusive agreement between the parties respecting the subject matter herein, and supersedes any and all prior related oral, emailed or written representations and agreements between the parties. No statements or promises by either party have been relied upon in entering into the Advertising Agreement, except as expressly set forth herein. Each party shall not disclose the terms or conditions of the Advertising Agreement to any third party, except to its professional advisors under a strict duty of confidentiality or as necessary to comply with a government law, rule or regulation.

(b) Anyone agreeing to the Advertising Agreement on behalf of Client represents and warrants that it has full legal power and authority to enter into the Advertising Agreement, perform its obligations hereunder, and authorize the fee payments set forth in the Purchase Order(s).

(c) Notices under the Advertising Agreement must be in writing and sent via the following methods. Yelp may provide effective notice to Client by facsimile, registered or certified mail, commercial courier or by sending an email to the email address specified in the Client Information section, and the notice will be deemed received when received by Client, but any event no later than two (2) days after dispatch by Yelp. Any notices sent by Client to Yelp must be sent via registered or certified mail, or commercial courier to its General Counsel at Yelp Inc., 140 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco, California, 94105, though notices of termination for convenience may also be sent via email as specified above in Section V, and will be deemed received when such notice is received by Yelp.

(d) Any conflict among the Terms, TOS, and Purchase Orders will be resolved first in favor of the Purchase Orders (most recent first, if applicable), then the Terms, and then the TOS. The Advertising Agreement may not be amended or modified except as agreed upon in writing by the parties. No provision in the Advertising Agreement may be waived, except pursuant to a writing executed by the party against whom the waiver is sought to be enforced. Client may not assign any rights or obligations under the Advertising Agreement without Yelp's prior consent, and any purported assignment by Client shall be void. If any provision of the Advertising Agreement is held to be invalid or unenforceable, the parties will either substitute for the affected provision a valid or enforceable provision that approximates the intent and economic effect of the affected provision or strike such provision without further prejudice to the Advertising Agreement such that all remaining provisions of the Advertising Agreement shall remain in full force and effect. Sections VI, VII, VIII, IX, and X of the Terms will survive any termination of the Advertising Agreement.

Used a Groupon and very glad we went. We did the Jekyll/Hyde room and escaped with plenty of time to spare. Our puzzle master Lily was terrific, allowing us plenty of slack but also giving excellent (not too easy) hints when needed. My 13 year old boy thought it was fantastic as did the four grownups in the game.

Staying in Chinatown

Neighborhood Profile

Chinatown

Bursting with an amazing array of sights, sounds, and smells on every block, a visit to Chinatown feels like entering a different world. It's a colorful spectacle that gets even more crowded on weekends, when families stream in to enjoy huge dim sum feasts and to stock up at the markets on Mott Street. To take a break from the buzz, grab something sweet from one of the many bakeries in the area and head to Columbus Park, where many Chinatown residents exercise, play games, and chat with their friends.

Mission Escape Games: The Art Studio [Review]

8 october 2014 by david spira, posted in reviews

Location: New York, New YorkDate played: October, 2014Price: $28 per ticket

The Plot

“You’ve been called in to assist in a disappearance!

A studio in town is hiding a secret and we need your help!

The tenant has disappeared without a word.
Find clues, solve questions and help us find our friend!"

The Staff

The first thing that our team discovered at Mission Escape Games is that boundless enthusiasm of the staff. Their love of room escape games was inescapable. We really liked them.

Theming

The Art Studio escape was themed on, you guessed it, an art studio. The room is fairly basic, and there isn't a story, but everything is on the theme.

The furniture, decor, and the puzzles themselves are kept within the theme. The mystique is loosely held together, but it works.

Non-Linear

The entire game was decidedly non-linear, which was great for a larger group. Everyone could work on different things.

10 People?

This is billed as a maximum 10 person game. The space is a bit too tight for 10 people. I'd suggest 6-8.

With a team of 10 people we were at times stepping on each other. I literally stepped on one of my friends.

Fun with Little Adventure

This is a solid starter room, but there isn't much of a sense of adventure.

Don't get me wrong, the room is a lot of fun, but there weren't any moments where I thought "damn... that's incredible."

There's plenty to throw you off, but there is a similarity between a lot of what's happening in this room, and some elements start to illicit a feeling of déjà vu.

Ultimately the puzzles are tricky and clever, however they never inspire awe.

Questioning the Sturdiness

The staff informed us before going into the room that in the near future, they will set up video cameras, and the game will proceed without a puzzle master in the room with the players. In principle, this is a great idea. In practice, I'm not certain that this particular room is sturdy enough to play without supervision.

While we were waiting outside, the team before us walked out, and one of the guys (who seemed like a drunken meathead) proudly proclaimed that they told him not to use force, but he broke something and it helped them win. As we inspected the room we found a small cabinet that was taped up.

On the flip side, in an attempt to over-engineer a solution to a puzzle, I accidentally broke something.

If the room stays as it is today, I suspect that the room will experience a bit too much weathering from both overzealous and overaggressive players without a puzzle master in the room; it's already been subject to a beating with supervision.

Great Deception

My biggest complement to this game is that while the room is fairly simple, the creators did a so superb job of creating deception; especially if you're familiar with room escapes.

The record for this room is under 30 minutes, and if you're really on top of things, I can easily see achieving this. However that was not the case with my team. We never got it together.

This was the first time that time that I lost a game that I felt like I should have won. It was a humbling experience.

Bottom-line

All-in-all, this is a very solid introductory puzzle.

I recommend both the room, and Mission Escape Games as a company. They are opening three new puzzles over the coming weeks, and I cannot wait to go back and play more.

Mission Escape Games: Escape the Darkest Hour [Review]

11 november 2014 by david spira, posted in reviews

Location: New York, New York

Date played: November, 2014

Team size: 1-6; we recommend 4-6

Price: $180 per team

Plot

You're a rescue team who has gone in search of a missing psychiatric doctor... And something went wrong...

"You have woken up in a completely dark room without a clue as to how you got there.

All you have in hand is a flashlight. You have one hour to discover what happened and make your escape, lest you succumb to the terrors of the room."

Be Forewarned

Room escape games are typically about as scary as coming home to an empty house with all of the lights on.

"Mission Escape Games: Escape the Darkest Hour" is a horror game.

You should not do this if:

- This is your first room escape game
- Horror movies leave you crying or cowering
- You are afraid of the dark, claustrophobic, or have other medical conditions that would prevent you from doing something intense

There is nothing even remotely dangerous about this room escape, but the intensity is ramped up a few notches.

Theme

You're in an abstract psychiatric ward gone very wrong. The lights are out. There's blood. There's creepy music.

Nearly everything in the room screams "horror scene."

The music that plays while you're in the room is eerie, and the random sound effects are awesome.

The room incorporates voice overs by professional actors. Totally badass. And any conversing with the puzzle masters is also in character. The plot progression is outstanding.

Is it scary?

Nothing in the room scared our group. But when one of our team members loudly spazzed-out, that terrified us all. We all agreed that if we weren't in a horror room, the spazzy episode wouldn't have frightened us. The ambiance succeeds.

So... Mission accomplished Mission Escape Games.

Locks with your locks

This room has a lot of locks. It is littered with combination and key locks. They are everywhere.

This room is pretty damn awesome, but if I have to really knock it for something it's the designer's heavy reliance on locks. All roads lead to a lock.

This contrasts pretty harshly against the few, and insanely cool non-lock puzzles. There aren't many of them, but when they happen, they are wonderful.

A serious challenge

I am proud to say that we were only the fifth team to escape in something like 170 team attempts. That's about a 3% success rate, which puts this on-par with some of the most challenging rooms I've ever heard of. It's the most challenging game that I have ever attempted and won.

Our team was very seasoned; most of us have started playing room escapes on a regular basis.

Due to the creativity and experience of some of our players, we cleverly circumvented some of the puzzles, and I suspect that the folks at Mission Escape Games might be making a couple changes to the room as a result of said creativity.

This is a really tough game. It's a worthy adversary, and I highly recommend taking on "Escape the Darkest Hour" if you have a few escape games under your belt.

If you're in NYC, and you're not up for this, give Mission Escape Games: The Art Studio, or Escape the Room NYC: The Office a try; they are great starter puzzles.

Hey! I just did two of the mission escape games and am eyeing this one to try next. I don't mind (actually, I enjoy) creepiness, but really don't like random shit jumping out at me. Does anything like the latter happen in this game? Basically, I just don't want to pee my pants while solving puzzles 😬

Unless they've changed the game (and these games do evolve over time), nothing jumps out at you. There are a few parts that are a bit more intense, but nothing that's going to hurt you or create the illusion that you might get hurt.

Mission Escape Games: Special Mission – Penguins of Madagascar [Review]

7 december 2014 by david spira, posted in reviews

A few things to know

This is an escape game designed for children 8 to 17 or so. It is a limited engagement, and will only be around for a few more weeks.

Full disclosure: The folks at Mission Escape Games let us play this one for free.

We tried to commandeer some of our friend's children to play this with us, but schedules didn't quite work. We still wanted to try the game so that we could get a sense of what a room escape for kids could be like. This was for science.

Plot

This game is a promotional event produced in conjunction with DreamWorks to support the movie "Penguins of Madagascar." It's a great idea for both room escapes and movies. I hope to see more of this.

"The Penguins need your help to make their escape.

Help Skipper, Rico, Private and Kowalski to solve puzzles and complete their Mission!!"

Kids Game

This really is a room escape game for kids. It's brightly lit. The room is pretty beautiful and completely unintimidating.

The game is deliberately linear, and each step along the way introduces you to a new character from the movie.

It's an escape game with training wheels, and it works really well.

Challenge

While this game is designed for the under 18 crowd, there is still some noteworthy challenge.

Our four person team of experienced room escapees breezed through 95% of this game in very little time... Then we spent FOREVER trying to solve the final puzzle.

The big TV in the room displays clues provided by the game master (who is always watching via camera). He kept giving us vague hints:

- “Think like a kid”
- “Think more like a kid”
- “You’re still thinking like adults”
- “Stop thinking like you’ve done a room escape before”
- “You’re on the right track”
- “Keep playing with the method you’re trying”

We eventually figured the thing out, but only after a mortifying amount of time elapsed.

Our the game master told us afterwards that the trend with the final puzzle is that adults can't figure it out, and kids have a whole lot less trouble with it.

No hyperbole, I don't think I've ever had this much trouble with a door puzzle in a room escape. It was hilarious.

Should I play this game?

Bearing in mind that this game will only exist for a few more weeks...

There aren't many room escape games for kids. If you have kids who would enjoy a bit of brainy adventure, go do it. It's a unique; physically interactive; and fun.

We never expected to recommend this game for a team of adults, and we aren't going to. However you can have fun with this as an adult in the same way that you'll enjoy watching a good animated movie with a kid, even if it's not a movie you would pick if you didn't have children with you.

After this room closes, the Mission Escape Games team has plans to transform the room into something a bit more serious. I'd say wait for that if you don't have any offspring to bring along.

Book an hour with Mission Escape Games, and tell them that the Room Escape Artist sent you.

Mission Escape Games: Escape The Hydeout [Review]

27 march 2015 by david spira, posted in reviews

Location: New York, New York

Date played: March 23, 2015

Team size: up to 8; we recommend 6-8

Price: $28 per ticket

Plot

The good doctor has been acting strange in recent months and has now disappeared.

You have been asked by his friend to go into the doctor's study and investigate his strange behavior.

You have one hour to discover what is happening before it is too late.

Full Disclosure

We didn't pay for this one. A reporter from a national publication took us to this room, and observed while we played it (more on that in the future).

This room was selected from the ever-shrinking list of Manhattan-based escape games that we haven't played, and was one of the few that had availability at the time we needed.

Mission's Most Refined Game

This is by far Mission Escape Games' most refined escape experience. Each game we've played with them has been better than the previous one, and this game represents a dramatic leap in quality.

This room escape looks good, plays well, and feels polished in a way that few escape games are.

Theme

“Hydeout” is not a typo. This is a Doctor Jekyll and Mister Hyde themed room (this isn’t a horror room; it’s not scary at all).

It looks great; everything is on theme.

It tells a reasonably compelling story.

It’s loaded with metaphors. Some are obvious, others are not.

Variety

In the past we’ve knocked Mission for an over reliance on locks. That’s not a thing in this room.

The variety of puzzles in the Hydeout is superb. Each puzzle offers its own unique challenge and solution.

Non-Linear

Escape The Hydeout is one of the least linear escape rooms that I’ve played. There are a few puzzles that have to be solved at specific parts of the game, but for the most part, it’s up to the players.

This is refreshing and it kept all seven of our people busy throughout the entire experience.

Challenging, Not Impossible

This game has a 17% success rate, and we made it out with 17 minutes, 40 seconds left on the clock.

We made two silly errors that resulted in us asking for hints, however this was a very tough yet solvable room.

Every puzzle in this room is completely fair, even when it's presenting a significant challenge.

Lightbox

This game needs a light-box to help solve one of the puzzles. The Mission crew assured me that they are going to build one.

I used my height to my team's advantage and used their television (which serves as the countdown clock and hint delivery system) as a light-box. It got the job done.

Great Moments

The Hydeout is filled with great moments. There are at least five instances in this game that our team loved.

One of them is very early in the game and it's just really damn cool.

No Climax

This is a wonderful game that is lacking one important piece. It needs an awe inspiring climactic moment. A moment that everything builds up to in an unforgettable and unreal instant. It needs that moment that everyone who plays it will remember for years after they finished it.

Few escape games find their epic, cinematic moment, and this one comes so close so many times, but never quite gets there.

If history is any indicator, Mission's next game is going to do it.

Should I Play This Game?

This is a no-brainer. I would put this game in the top two games in New York City (that I've played so far).

If you're new to escape games, you can play this. It will be hard, but it's doable. I think this is best once you have one or two under your belt.

It has great ambiance, gameplay, and is so incredibly fair while maintaining its difficulty.

This is a must play room.

Mission Escape Games – Nemesis [Review]

13 october 2015 by david spira, posted in reviews

In the final minutes of Nemesis, I felt my world crashing, but recovered in the very last moment.

Location: New York, New York

Date played: September 17, 2015

Team size: up to 8; we recommend 4-6

Price: $28 per ticket

2015 Golden Lock-In Winner

Theme & story

You've been sent to board a massive space-station that has lost power and is about to fall out of orbit, plummet to Earth, and end all life on the planet. You have 60 minutes to restore power to the station, correcting its orbit or the world ends.

The Nemesis looked exceptional. Every item in the room was on-theme and it was sci-fi in a dark and slightly intimidating way.

The game felt like we stepped into a new world, and it was a fun world to explore.

Intro

We were the first non-tester team to play Nemesis. Derek, the owner of Mission Escape Games, handled our introduction to the game, and it was a bit disjointed. I followed the story line because it was a familiar sci-fi setup, but some of our less nerdy teammates were confused about the goal of our Mission.

I'd venture to guess that because this is a new game, the introductory speech isn't polished yet, but it's an important part of the game (especially for less experienced players).

Puzzles

There was a bit of a mixed bag here in the puzzles.

On the plus side, there were no padlocks whatsoever and many of the puzzles were interactions with the space station.

This room was at its best when the puzzles were space station interactions that advanced a story line.

On the not-so-plus side, a couple of these puzzles were excruciatingly challenging. There was one puzzle that was so hard that I can confidently say our team wouldn't have solved it... And

I'm not even sure we would have gotten it with hints... But we accidentally circumvented that puzzle so we'll never know.

Breakage & accidental circumvention

This game was technology-driven. Almost everything involved a sensor or something digital. Thus there was high potential for bugs, especially for early players.

In one instance we bypassed a puzzle, and didn't even know it. We did a thing, and another thing opened. It turned out that we did the wrong thing, and had no idea that we had circumvented the hardest puzzle of the game.

There was another instance where we had the right answer, and the device didn't work. It was a bummer because that happened at a particularly dramatic moment.

Escalation, storytelling, and a climactic moment

Nemesis had a dramatic beginning, largely because the puzzles fit into the story. It had a similarly dramatic ending. When we restored power to the space station with a minute to spare, and the triumphant theme from one of my favorite PS2 era video games started playing in the background, I was elated... More on that elation in a moment.

The middle of the game lost the plot thread. The puzzles existed for their own sake rather than to advance the story.

Nemesis had so many wonderful moments that conveyed meaning and story, a few of the puzzles didn't feel like they should have made the cut.

A personal drama

This was a special game for me because it was the first domino in my extraordinarily complex marriage proposal to my (now) fiancée, and Room Escape Artist co-everything, Lisa Radding.

Derek graciously hid a small box in the room for Lisa to find. He asked me if I “wanted to know where it would be hidden.” I didn’t want to know anything about the game, so I said, “no.”

He hid the box in the penultimate puzzle of the game... So I became hint happy in the final minutes. I was silently panicking as it started to look increasingly like we weren’t going to get out.

If you’re interested in the full story of the proposal, you should read Lisa’s post, The Escape of the Ring from the Puzzle Box.

Should I play Mission Escape Games’ Nemesis?

The last time we played at Mission Escape Games, we loved the Hydeout, but we thought it lacked a climax. Nemesis did not suffer from this problem.

It had quite a few wonderful moments in it and the overall feel was seductive in a nerdy sort of way. It was intense, a ton of fun, and a game that I will always remember (not all of that has to do with the game itself).

All of that being said, there were moments when the game didn’t work as designed, a couple of puzzles that were far too confounding, and a few elements that felt like they should have been better incorporated into the story. Mission keeps getting better and we keep moving the goal post on what constitutes a perfect game.

Nemesis is a game for experienced players. If this is your first room, you're going to have a rough time. It's (mostly) fair to experienced players, but I am reasonably sure that it will offer an insurmountable challenge to first time teams. Mission has a few games that offer a softer learning curve. Give those a try; then face off against the apocalypse space station.

Mission Escape Games – Escape the Initiation [Review]

10 january 2016 by david spira, posted in reviews

A game designed specifically to introduce new players to escape games.

Location: New York, New York

Date played: December 29, 2015

Team size: 2-6; we recommend 3-5

Price: $28 per ticket

Deliberately basic

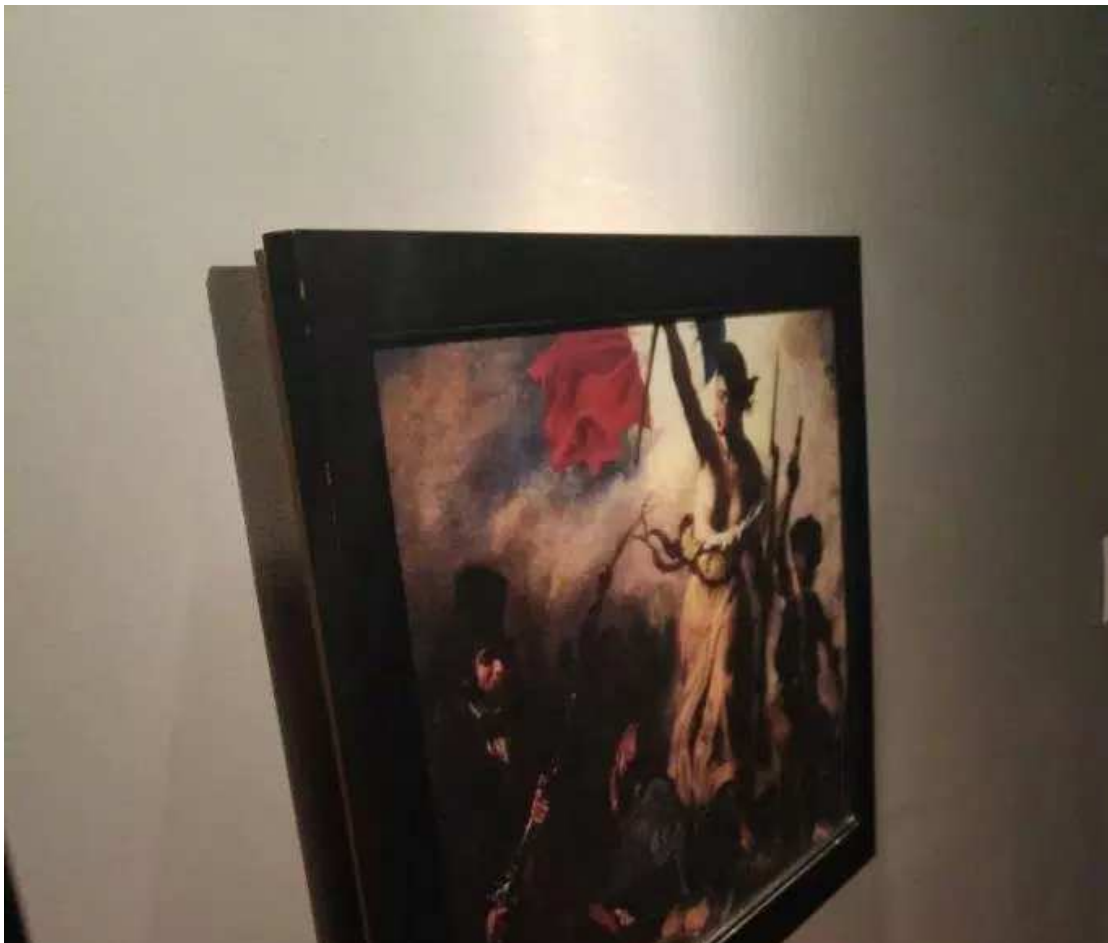

Basic, introductory rooms are usually created by accident. A new game designer doesn't really have a strong grasp on the art and science of room escape design, and makes a room that's soft and gooey.

These basic rooms are generally flawed in a great many ways, but are hopefully good enough to drive interest in playing another, better game.

Escape the Initiation was interesting because it was deliberately designed by seasoned escape room designers as an on-ramp for the hobby.

It was optimized for noobs. It wasn't spectacular, but it wasn't junkie. It wasn't too easy, but it was miles away from too hard.

This was the beginner's Goldi-locks room.

Theme & story

“The president of the Company, Mister M, has selected you to join his secret society. But in order to become a member, you must pass the initiation exam! You have one hour to solve the puzzles of the room, or else be trapped forever.”

The setup was confusing. Were we trying to get into a secret society or get a job at a prestigious company? We won, and I’m still not sure.

The room was a straightforward puzzle room. It wasn’t overdone and it wasn’t underdone... It was done.

Puzzles, locks, and magic

The gameplay was a solid mix of exactly what you'd expect from a strong, but typical escape game: an assortment of locks, some scavenging, a good mix of puzzles, and some technology-driven magic.

Missable magic

There were two special moments in Escape the Initiation. Both were pretty damn cool.

You'd have to have been unconscious to miss one of them.

But the other, which our team considered superior, happened quickly and without warning. The biggest complaint we had from our teammates came from the folks who were looking at something else when this moment triggered.

Those that missed it were indignant.

Should I play Mission Escape Games' Escape the Initiation?

In Escape the Initiation, Mission Escape Games decided to make the room escape equivalent of a sampler platter. It provides a great 101 course in Escape Rooms. It covers most of the cliches with its own twists.

Nothing was too hard, obnoxious, or unfinished.

The game wasn't designed to shock, challenge, and impress us, it was made to shock, challenge, and impress the folks who have never played ones of these games... And while I'm not the target for this game, I think it more than succeeded.

It's a polished game to introduce people to the hobby, and it's now my go-to recommendation for first timers.

It's also a great candidate for a more experienced team to attempt a speedrun.

Book your hour with Mission Escape Games' Escape the Initiation, and tell them that the Room Escape Artist sent you.

Full disclosure: Mission Escape Games comped our tickets for this game.

THE ART OF THE ESCAPE ROOM

BY STUART MILLER ON 4/19/15 AT 1:39 PM

IN THE MAGAZINE

A scene from Escape the Room NYC, an interactive game/puzzle where groups of people are locked in a room and have to solve puzzles and find clues to escape, all within 60 minutes.

BENJAMIN NORMAN

CULTURE

GAMES

David Spira's team is ready. No need for inspirational speeches—the adrenaline (aided by plenty of caffeine) is flowing. They cross the threshold, and the door locks behind them. The seven men and women briskly attack the room, tugging at drawers, trying to lift a print off the wall. Spira flips the rug over, shouting out his discovery into the swirl of an increasing din.

Room escape games lock players in a room where they must seek clues and solve puzzles tied to a story or theme to escape before time runs out, usually in one hour. Already a worldwide phenomenon, room escapes are suddenly hot in America, even capturing the attention of university researchers and corporate marketers. Scott Nicholson, director of the Because Play Matters game lab at Syracuse University, praises the games' interactive nature. "They allow people to leave the world of screens and engage face to face," he says, adding that "because room escapes offer different types of challenges, each member on a team has a time when they are able to be the hero."

In Spira's group, Lindsay Froelich and Lisa Radding thrive on word puzzles, Jason Lisnak is the numbers guru and Jason Cascio is "the hacker" looking for ways to circumvent the designed sequence of puzzles. Spira, the leader of his group of friends, has also become what seems to be America's first room escape blogger and reviewer.

Try Newsweek for only $1.25 per week

The first five minutes for Spira's team are "organized chaos," says Froelich. "We turn the room over." They developed this tactic of gathering all the puzzles and clues immediately, says Lisnak, because the first time Spira and his friends tried a room escape, they made a bad rookie mistake. "We were trying to solve one puzzle for 10 minutes, but it turned out we were missing a clue that was in the cushion of the chair I was sitting on," he says with a cackle.

They can sometimes be too thorough. Once, while playing a game housed in a former medical office, Spira found a urine sample. He snatched it eagerly and carried it around, certain it was a clue. It was actually trash that had been left behind.

After being born as point-and-click computer games like Crimson Room, the live version began in Japan in 2007, spread throughout Asia and reached Eastern Europe by about 2011, becoming especially popular in Budapest, Hungary. A Japanese import, SCRAP, arrived in San Francisco in 2012. There was little competition for years, but in the past 18 months these games have proliferated at an astonishing rate. Jonathan Murrell, co-founder of the Nashville Escape Game, which opened last May, was recently in Florida launching a second location, with plans for follow-ups this year in Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, and Austin, Texas.

"They're cropping up faster than we can keep track of," says Spira. "The good ones really are works of art."

Marty Parker, owner of Room Escape Adventures, estimates there are more than 80 locations and expects more than 300 by year's end. He opened his first in Chicago in December 2013 and now has rooms in 18 American cities, plus three abroad. A voluble pitchman, Parker, who has worked as a day trader and a team mascot, and now promotes mud runs and tomato fights, was “looking for the next thing in the active entertainment industry.” His games are among the few rooms with live actors—each has a chained-up “zombie” who tries to attack players.

Most owners got involved because of an interest in game design and puzzles. Jeff Hsin was an IBM computer engineer who partnered with an electrical engineer and a mechanical engineer to create the Exit Game in Los Angeles, which features things like a laser wall that trips an alarm. “We wanted to design one a little more high-tech,” he says. “Our strength is our Hollywood magic. You should feel like you’re in Ocean’s Eleven.”

Back at the Hydeout at Mission Escape Games in New York, Spira's team combines pieces found in one area with a clue from another and suddenly hear a creaking sound. A secret passage opens to another room. (Room owners request that few details be divulged; however, Mission Escape founder Derek Tam says the creaking noise as the passage opens is real but he has to pipe it in a second time because players otherwise “just think this old Chinatown building is making weird noises, and they ignore it and don't see the passage.”)

Room escapes have undergone a rapid evolution, with a greater emphasis on what designers call “the wow factor”—black-light, secret passages and trapdoors are increasingly regular features. Murrell tries imagining an effect—“It would be really cool if players pushed the dynamite down and the wall blew up”—then has his custom builders find a way to pull it off.

In the better rooms, the early reliance on number puzzles and locks has also given way to a more elaborate mix of puzzles and clues. Some alternatives are simply inventive: Jason Cascio from Spira's team says his favorites have included one in which Spira had to use an endoscope on a CPR dummy and another in which they had to use binoculars to find a clue on a restaurant sign down the block. “I'm a nerd for these puzzles,” says Murrell, but he knows not everyone is as captivated. “If it's all number games, my wife just shuts off.”

There is also a greater emphasis on themes and stories. “You want to suspend reality and feel like you're in an alternate universe with your friends,” Radding says. Parker adds that the players need to feel the clues are connected, not random. Spira points to a Time Travel game from SCRAP where one room in “the past” allows players to change the room in “the present” to help solve puzzles. On the other hand, Spira says, SCRAP gets bogged down in obscure math problems: “Their games feel like 10 minutes of cinematic movies wrapped in 50 minutes of mind-numbing homework.”

SCRAP, like the puzzles in Japan, prides itself on a success rate in the single digits. “The Japanese don't care if you get stuck, but American audiences are not like that,” Murrell says. This is a night out of entertainment, “and if you get stuck, you get bored.

“The success rate is one of the biggest debates we have,” he says, adding that his Nashville games are solved perhaps 35 percent of the time. Many places have games with success rates in the 20 percent range but offer one more challenging game. “It needs to be a substantial challenge to feel worthwhile. Also, if you lose and everyone else is escaping, you'll feel like an idiot.”

Some places allow players to request a limited numbers of hints, while others provide as many as needed. Eric Siu, co-founder of Mystery Room NYC in Manhattan, has a timed checklist, and if he sees players struggling, he'll give a hint. “We would love it to be completely organic, but without clues 90 percent of the people would not get their money's worth and the industry would collapse,” Parker says.

For 35 minutes, the team makes steady progress. But Lisnak gets stuck on a crucial number pattern, finally passing it off to Tara Lyons, 22, who had been trying to solve lock combinations with Jackie Vance, 29. No luck. Frustrated, they relent and ask for a hint, then moan when they realize they had accidentally placed a crucial piece of information in their “solved” pile. With that, the pattern is easily solved, and the answers click into place.

This year and next will be a time of rapid expansion for the industry—Spira points to Las Vegas as an underserved market—but everyone sees a saturation point coming. Nicholson and Rik Eberhardt, who runs the MIT Game Lab, say the key for designers is to figure out how to swap out puzzles quickly without undermining the story so customers can replay rooms.

Radding says customer service will become a decisive factor. “There are plenty that can design good puzzles, but many are geeks and nerds who are not good with people, so customer service can be lacking,” she says. “The ones that will survive are the ones who can run a business.”

There are also new avenues for growth. Parker says a large percentage of his business is companies looking for fun team-building exercises. “They learn there's no quick path to success, that it's OK to take risks and be wrong, that there's a process and it requires teamwork,” he says.

Meanwhile, Tam hosted a Penguins of Madagascar room for DreamWorks last year, and NBC Universal's USA Network worked with New York City's Escape the Room to promote its archaeology adventure series Dig with rooms in three cities and at two Universal theme parks.

Given the need to build relationships with fans and the potential for reaching “the nerd audience coveted for fantasy and sci-fi projects,” Spira thinks there'll be more sponsored room escapes coming soon.

And Nicholson sees room escapes as an educational tool for museums and other places. He's designing one for Fort Stanwix National Monument in Rome, New York, that will rely on ways the army concealed messages during the American Revolution, teaching both the history of the fort and the time period. "The potential for these games to be learning tools is significant," he says. As for the growth of room escapes, he adds, "We haven't seen anything yet."

With 17 minutes to spare, Spira's team escapes the Hydeout. They share a postmortem with Tam, then head for a celebratory dinner at a Greenwich Village burger joint. The conversation there spans many topics but can't escape room escapes: Froelich will soon try one in Dublin; Lisnak and Lyons will play one in Rome.

As they stand on the sidewalk saying goodbye, Cascio looks at the restaurant's awning, studying the street address. "When you play these games, you see numbers and patterns everywhere," he says. "You start thinking everything is a clue."

Golden Lock-In Awards

2015 Golden Lock-In Awards

2 january 2016 by david spira, posted in news, reviews

We played and reviewed 65 rooms in 2015

These 10 rooms are the games that we wish we could play again.

There is no perfect game, but these are the ones that still make us smile long after we escaped or, in one instance, failed in the attempt.

That isn't to say the 55 other games we played were bad; many of them were great too.

Rules

1. We only considered games that we personally played in 2015.
2. We both had to agree to add the room to the list.

3. There was no minimum or maximum number of rooms that had to appear on the list. (It's a coincidence that the number is 10).
4. Each company could only have one game on the list. (Note that two companies have merged since we played, giving one company two games on this list. However, the games were designed and originally executed completely independently of each other.)

2015 Golden Lock-In Winners

Listed chronologically in the order in which we played them.

Spark of Resistance

60 Minutes to Escape – Portland, Oregon

No other room escape conveyed a narrative like Spark of Resistance. No other room defeated us so thoroughly.

The Dig

Escape the Room Philly – Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

It started as a free pop-up game promoting a television show, and grew into a permanent immersive adventure.

Outer Space

Escape Games NYC – New York, New York

It was the most beautiful game we set foot in.

Manhattan Mayhem

Escape Entertainment – New York, New York

So clever and so fun, this was the first room escape that we would call “abstract art.”

Mutiny at the Hour

The Hour – St. Catharines, Ontario

We never stopped smiling on this nutty pirate ship adventure.

The Chamber

Escape The Place – Colorado Springs, Colorado

We played head-to-head, solving a giant puzzle cube akin to the video game The Room.

Saint Angelo's Castle

Komnata Quest, Long Island City – Queens, New York

It had the most intense, ominous set design.

Nemesis

Mission Escape Games – New York, New York

We can't fully separate the game from the start of a proposal. This will always be a special game... Plus, it's an awesome space station.

The Wizard's Apothecary: The Power of the Rings

Escape Room Live Alexandria – Alexandria, Virginia

Every element was magical, fun, and clever. Even their hinting system was incredible.

Dungeon of Elements

Mission Escape Games, Queens (formerly Enigma NYC) – Queens, New York

Massive, physically interactive set pieces brought the Dungeon to life on an immense scale (especially for New York City).

If I've played all of these game, what next?

OPPOSITION NO. 91227852

MISSION ESCAPE ROOMS LLC'S ANSWERS TO FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES OF OPPOSER

COMES NOW the Applicant, Mission Escape Rooms LLC, through counsel, Dominic J. Souza, Esquire and Souza, LLC, and states the following in Answer to Interrogatories propounded by Opposer, Oakwon Demographics, LLC:

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. In each of Applicant's general and specific objections to these Interrogatories, each reference to these interrogatories (or any single interrogatory) refers also to the definitions and instructions for the interrogatories.

2. Applicant objects to these interrogatories to the extent they impose requirements, obligations and duties not prescribed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, or other applicable law.

3. Applicant objects to these interrogatories to the extent that they purport to seek materials and information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the work-product doctrine, the consulting expert privilege, testimonial privilege, deliberative process, or other legally recognized limitations on discovery. Furthermore, any production of privileged or otherwise protected information or documents is inadvertent and shall not constitute a waiver of any claim of privilege or other protection. Applicant reserves the right to demand the return of any inadvertently produced information or documents. Applicant further states that the provision of these Answers does not in any way waive its right to testimonial privilege, and does not act to waive its privilege not to testify at Hearing in this action.

4. Applicant objects to these interrogatories to the extent that they require Applicant to produce information and/or materials that reflect deliberative process, evidence settlement discussions, and/or evidence subsequent remedial measures in violation of the Federal Rules of Evidence.

5. Applicant objects to creating lists of information or documents that are not relevant to the claims or defenses in this lawsuit, not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, and/or are already in the possession, custody, or control of Opposer. Interrogatories that seek such lists are overly broad, unduly burdensome, and go beyond the requirements of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

6. Applicant objects to the definition of the terms “you” and “your” to the extent that this definition would require Applicant to search for and produce documents that do not relate to any facts, issues, claims and/or admissible evidence in this action, and as applied to Opposer's Interrogatories would be overly broad, unduly burdensome, and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects to the definition of the terms "you" and "your" to the extent that the definition would require Applicant to search for information or documents from sources outside of its custody and/or control on matters that are not germane to the issues, claims, defenses and facts in the present action, would be overly broad, unduly burdensome, and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

7. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that they purport to require Applicant to search for and produce information or documents that are in the possession or custody of other entities and/or individuals, and not in the possession, custody and/or control of Applicant. Requiring any broader search for responsive information and/or documents, as applied to these interrogatories, would be overly broad, unduly burdensome, and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

8. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that they seek information that is neither relevant to the claims and defenses in this lawsuit nor are reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

9. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that they are predicated on erroneous assumptions or to the extent they state incorrect law. By responding to these interrogatories, Applicant does not agree to and specifically reserves his right to challenge any factual predicates contained in the Interrogatories.

10. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent they seek information that is a matter of public record.

11. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that they seek information that is not known to the Applicant.

12. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that they seek information that is no longer in his possession, custody and/or control, or is equally available to the Opposer.

13. Applicant objects to these interrogatories to the extent that they call for information that could depend upon expert testimony.

14. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that they call for Applicant to render or state a legal conclusion(s).

15. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories to the extent that compliance with the same would be unduly burdensome.

16. Applicant objects to these Interrogatories on the ground that they exceed the numerical limitation on interrogatories and discrete subparts set forth in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

17. Applicant has made reasonable efforts to locate and produce information responsive to these Interrogatories, as it understands and reasonably interprets them. If the Court or the parties later arrive at a different interpretation of any interrogatory, Applicant reserves his rights to supplement or amend its responses and objections accordingly.

18. All answers to these Interrogatories are based on information available to Applicant at this time and are made on the basis of Applicant's current knowledge and belief, after reasonable inquiry. There could be additional facts and/or documents, affecting Applicant's answers, of which Applicant is currently unaware, despite reasonable investigation and inquiry. Applicant reserves the right to modify its responses with such relevant information and documents as they might subsequently discover. Applicant's responses are made without prejudice to using or relying on subsequently discovered information or documents.

19. Applicant objects to the definitions and instructions in Opposer's Interrogatories to the extent that they purport to require Applicant to supplement its answers except as required the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

20. Applicant objects to the disclosure of information that falls within any of the foregoing general objections or the specific objections set forth below. In the event that any information that falls within one or more of these objections is disclosed in these responses, the disclosure is inadvertent and shall not constitute a waiver of any objection.

RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS TO SPECIFIC INTERROGATORIES

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 1: Identify all goods and services upon or in connection with which You have used the Subject Trademarks in the United States, the dates of first use therewith, and all documents relating to such first use(s).

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, is a compound interrogatory and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer: The Subject Trademarks have been used in connection with conducting live entertainment in the nature of games featuring room escape, puzzles and team strategy. Applicant began publicizing the Subject Trademark as early as December 7, 2015 on Facebook, through a website (December 13, 2015) and truck wrap (December 2015). Printouts from Facebook will be produced evidencing these dates of use.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 2: With respect to each of the goods identified in Your response to Interrogatory No. 1 above, describe the purpose of each good or service and the manner in which it is used.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, is a compound interrogatory and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer: The Subject Trademarks are not used in connection with goods. The purpose of the services provided is to provide entertainment.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 3: Describe in detail the circumstances surrounding Your selection and/or adoption of the Subject Trademarks.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects on the grounds that this Interrogatory seeks confidential and/or privileged information. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

The term “Mission” was selected because it describes the service, i.e. The mission is to escape the room and is reminiscent of “Mission Impossible.”

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 4: State whether You conducted any clearance search prior to adopting the Subject Trademarks for use.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects on the grounds that this Interrogatory seeks confidential and/or privileged information and seeks a legal conclusion to which Applicant is not qualified to render. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

A clearance search of the database of the United States Patent and Trademark Office was conducted prior to adopting the Subject Trademark.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 5: Identify the person(s) employed by You most knowledgeable about the marketing, promotion, advertising, distribution, offering for sale, sale, and provision of goods or services under the Subject Trademarks in the United States.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects on the grounds that this Interrogatory seeks confidential and/or privileged information. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

Jason Cherry and Lena Fink. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 6: With respect to each of the goods and/or services identified in Your response to Interrogatory No. 1 above, describe the class of purchasers to which You sell offer [sic] to sell each such goods or provide such services in the United States.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

The class of purchasers of the services provided under the mark is any age group from age 9 and up. While the millennial generation is the target market most likely to return, anyone could be a customer. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 7: With respect to each of the goods and services identified in Your response to Interrogatory No. 1 above, describe the channels of trade through which such goods and services are marketed, offered, sold, distributed and/or provided.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

Groupon, Google, Google Advertisement, Yelp, Yelp Advertisement, Trip Advisor, Facebook, Facebook Advertisement, Capital Gazette (print and online advertisement), Lifestyles Magazine Advertisement, Landmarks Advertisement (publications placed in hotel rooms), Visit Annapolis Anne Arundel County membership and partnership (print and online advertising), Brochures distributed in hotels, tourist shops and restaurants throughout Annapolis, advertising through donation to non-profits and Applicant's website www.missionescaperooms.com. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 8: With respect to each of the goods and/or services identified in Your response to Interrogatory No. 1 above, identify the geographic areas in which You have used or intend to use the Subject Trademarks.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects on the grounds that this Interrogatory seeks confidential and/or privileged information. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

Applicant currently uses its Trademarks in various locations throughout the United States. Applicant operates one hard location in Annapolis, Maryland and is in the process of opening another location in Gambrills, Maryland. Applicant offers its services to anyone in the United States through marketing and advertising. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 9: With respect to each of the goods and/or services identified in Your response to Interrogatory No. 1 above, describe the level of sophistication of target customers for such goods and services.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it seeks information not within the possession, custody and/or control of Applicant.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 10: Identify each person or entity, including but not limited to any assignee, franchisee, subsidiary, affiliate, licensee, licensor or distributor that uses or has used the Subject Trademarks in the United States or is authorized by you to use the Subject Trademarks.

ANSWER: None except for Applicant.

INTERROGATORY NUMBER 11: Identify the date(s) upon which You first became aware of Opposer's Trademarks and describe the circumstances thereof.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

Letter from Michael Sarney dated February 19, 2016. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NO. 12: Identify and describe all instances in which You have ever received mail deliveries, telephone calls, bills, payments, invoices or other materials referring to or inquiring about Opposer, Opposer's Trademarks, or any goods or services offered, sold or provided by Opposer.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects on the grounds that this Interrogatory seeks confidential and/or privileged information. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

Other than communications received from Opposer relating to the dispute at issue herein, none. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NO. 13: Identify and describe all instances of confusion on the part of any person as to the source, sponsorship, affiliation, or approval of: (a) the Subject Trademarks and Opposer's Trademarks or Opposer; or (b) Applicant and Opposer's Trademarks or Opposer.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, is a compound interrogatory and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it seeks information not within the possession, custody and/or control of Applicant. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

None. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NO. 14: State the connotation, if any, of the term MISSION, as used in the Subject Trademarks.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

The connotation of the term “Mission” as used in the Subject Trademark is the normal definition of the word (objective or goal).

INTERROGATORY NO. 15: Describe in detail all media in which You have advertised or intend to advertise Your goods/and [sic] or services under the Subject marks, including but not limited to the type of media (e.g., newspaper, magazine, trade journal, direct mail advertising, radio, television, Internet), the identity of the media source, and the geographic scope of the advertising.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, is a compound interrogatory and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

See Answer to Interrogatory No. 7. In addition, there have been mentions of Applicant in publications including but not limited to “What’s Up Annapolis,” “The Capital Gazette,” “The Baltimore Sun” and on radio that were not paid for. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NO. 16: Describe in detail Your plans, if any, for expanding your business in connection with the Subject Trademarks and/or the goods or services in connection with which the Subject Marks are used and/or intended to be used, including but not limited to expanding Your offering of goods and/or services, Your marketing or distribution channels, Your target customers and/or the geographic scope of Your business.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, is a compound interrogatory and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects on the grounds that this Interrogatory seeks confidential and/or privileged information.

INTERROGATORY NO. 17: Describe in detail all facts supporting or contradicting Your denials set forth in your Answers to paragraph 7 of each of the Notices of Opposition in this proceeding.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Applicant further objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it seeks information not within the possession, custody and/or control of Applicant. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:

Applicant has no actual knowledge of the goods and services provided in connection with Opposer's trademarks. Applicant reserves the right to supplement this answer as discovery is ongoing.

INTERROGATORY NO. 18: Describe in detail all facts supporting or contradicting Your denials set forth in your Answers to paragraph 8 of each of the notices of Opposition in this proceeding.

ANSWER:

Applicant objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overly broad, unduly burdensome, vague and ambiguous, and is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, see below answer:
